Humphrey, EMK Both Seeking Senate Posts

By The Associated Press

Hubert H. Humphrey and Edward M. Kennedy will battle half-a-continent apart this fall for seats in the U.S. Senate that could put both in a race for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey, announcing his candidacy today in Minnesota, hopes to make his political comeback by winning the seat now held by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who is not seeking re-election.

Kennedy was unanimously endorsed by the Massachusetts State Democratic Convention Friday and he told fellow Democrats he would serve a full six-year term if elected. He was thus saying he would not reach for the White House in 1972.

But both Kennedy and Humphrey would come under increasing pressure from others to seek their party's nomination in 1972 if they are victorious in November. Democratic Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien already has touted Kennedy as a possible candidate.

In an unrelated Senate contest, incumbent Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., issued a brief statement Friday saying he would neither seek nor accept his state's Democratic Senate nomination.

The 63-year-old senator has been plagued in recent months by heart trouble and considerable Democratic party opposition for the nomination.

There is speculation Dodd will seek re-election to a third term as an independent or third party candidate.

Wounded Pilot Asks Stronger Hijack Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wounded captain of a hijacked Trans World Airlines jetliner has called for stronger penalties to deter sky pirates.

"There must be some way of keeping these people from returning to society," said Capt. Dale Hupe, 50, who was shot in the abdomen in a scuffle with a hijacker June 4.

Severe punishment might discourage air pirates, he added, but "just what it would be I don't know."

The former Marine Corps aviator, speaking from a wheelchair in his first public appearance since the hijacking, said 'it was the best feeling I ever had" when shot.

"We knew then we had him stopped," he explained.

Arthur G. Barkley, 49, Phoenix, was charged with aircraft piracy and interfering with a flight crew following the scuffle while the jet was on the ground at Dulles International Airport.

Hupe said the hijacker was extremely upset when he commandeered the flight from Phoenix to Washington, but it wasn't until later he concluded Barkley meant to kill the crew and all 57 passengers aboard.

At that point, Hupe said, he and copilot Don Solmonson decided to jump Barkley.

The pilot said an FBI agent was the real hero of the drama.

Referring to an agent who entered the cockpit while the gunman held the crew at bay, Hupe said, "Anybody who'd allow himself up into a gunsight is a very brave man."

'Trash Explosion' In U.S. Immense

Minimum Wage Hike Gets Senate Okay

LANSING (AP) — Thousands of Michigan wage earners stand only one legislative battle away from higher pay checks today, after the Senate approved a House-passed bill boosting the $1.25 hourly minimum by 20 cents.

The bill, approved 24-11 after bitter debate Friday, hikes the minimum wage to $1.45 hourly as of July 1.

Priority Item

Gov William Milliken, who called the bill a "priority item," hailed Senate action as "a major step in assuring a cost of living increase" for many and noted the increase would be the first since 1967.

That increase, however, may become mired in debate over when a second increase — to $1.60 an hour—would take effect. The House-passed bill slated that increase for Jan. 1, 1971, but the Senate pushed that back to July 1, 1971.

Compromise Possible

There had been some talk of a compromise, dividing the difference and scheduling the $1.60 hourly minimum to take effect in April 1971, but lawmakers indicated that idea may have fallen by the wayside—at least now—because of a hassle over agricultural workers.

In Senate debate, some members tried to exclude agricultural workers from any increase that might be provided for them under terms of a piece work rate schedule already in operation.

Their pay is recommended by the State Wage Deviation Board, which computes the amount on the basis of an average worker's production, with one unit divided into the minimum hourly wage.

Recommended Pay

For example, if a worker picked an average of five quarts of strawberries an hour, the five would be divided into $1.25 and the recommended pay would be 25 cents a quart.

Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, tried to tack on provisions that the hourly rate for agricultural workers might not exceed the federal minimum rate for agriculture—some 30 cents below the $1.60.

Without such an amendment, Byker argued, the bill "would have an adverse effect on many parts of agriculture" because farmers might not be able to afford it.

His amendment failed, as did one by Senate Labor Chairman Oscar Bouwsma, R-Muskegon, who sought to limit the amount by which the piece rate scale would be increased.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zollar, a Benton Harbor Republican who also is a fruit grower, said farmers already are forced, by competition, to pay higher rates than recommended by the wage deviation board.

Explains "No" Vote

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, called the proposed amendments an attempt to "emasculate the piece-rate plan."

Sen. Alvin DeGrow, R-Pigeon, explained his "no" vote on the bill by saying he was "afraid we have just taken another step in eliminating jobs for many of the people who need them the most"—the migrants.

In other action Friday, the Senate passed and sent to the House a proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize a governor to appoint a lieutenant governor if the second spot in Michigan's executive hierarchy were vacant.

Turned down by an overwhelming 13-18 vote—26 votes were required for passage—was another constitutional amendment that would have asked Michigan voters to rule on whether the state should have a new capitol.

Proposal Beaten

Defeated also was a proposal, by Sen. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, to eliminate bar exams for anyone graduated from an accredited Michigan law school. That bill was slated for reconsideration next week, with backers talking about a possible amendment that would free the top 50 per cent of law school graduating classes from the 2½ days of bar exams.

Tate Death Trial To Begin Monday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite raucous disruptions, ejection of defendants from court and a clutter of legal tangles, the long-delayed trial of four members of a hippie-type clan charged with the Sharon Tate murders remains scheduled to begin Monday.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ordered clan leader Charles Manson and three shapely women followers removed from court Friday when they became unruly and indicated he'll do the same during the trial if they act up.

Then the judge disposed of the last pretrial motions which could have delayed the trial, refusing to act on some, including a motion for a continuance. The trial date was set in April.

Manson and the three women were ejected for the third time Friday when they came to court and stood in a pose of crucifixion—arms extended at sides and heads bowed. The judge ordered bailiffs to put them in their seats, and a commotion ensued.

Manson — once called "God and "Christ" by his followers-wrestled with three bailiffs as they held his wrists, tugged on his long mane of hair and tried to handcuff him. Red-faced and howling, he was led from court.

The three other defendants-Susan Atkins, 21, Leslie Van Houten, 20, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 22—followed. But first, the colorfully clad women shouted at the judge and spectators.

The judge has indicated he will continue invoking rights outlined in a recent Supreme Court decision which allow an unruly defendant to be barred from court or bound and gagged during trial.

They are charged in the macabre murders of blonde, pregnant Miss Tate and six others.

Kidnapers Ask Release Of 28

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The kidnapers of West German Ambassador Ehrenfried von Holienben have demanded 28 political prisoners as ransom and have issued a call for guerrilla war.

President Emilio Garrastazu Medici's military regime distributed the lengthy manifesto to newspapers and radio stations without comment, today, apparently at the demand of the kidnapers.

The document charged that the "military dictatorship unmasks itself more and more as an enemy of the people, as a servant of the big foreign capitalists as well as the big property holders."

"Only revolutionary war, guerrilla action and rural guerrilla warfare will bring the Brazilian people to freedom, it said.

Nine young men and a woman carrying machine guns kidnaped the 61-year-old ambassador Thursday night near his home in the Gloria section of Rio.

Grants Accepted

DETROIT (AP) — Government and private grants totaling $1.5 million for the support of research and instruction have been accepted by Wayne State University's Board of Governors.

Also accepted were three grants totaling $836,000 for student aid.

The WSU board acknowledged $76,970 in gifts for a one-month period.

Hickel May Be Next Casualty, Times Claims

NEW YORK (AP) — There is speculation that Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel may soon resign or be dismissed from his cabinet post in view of faltering relations with President Nixon, the New York Times said in its Saturday edition.

Quoting unnamed Capitol Hill sources, the newspaper said Hickel's successor may be Fred J. Russell, named undersecretary of the interior by Nixon last March to succeed Russell E. Train.

Train was appointed chairman of the new Council on Environmental Quality.

The latest breach between Nixon and Hickel, the newspaper said, occurred Thursday when Hickel reportedly was told by the White House not to attend a press briefing on proposed legislation to cancel 20 federal oil leases in the Santa Barbara Canal.

Hickel did not appear, although his department had prepared a press release on the bill. The Times said the release was withheld, with Hickel reported "deeply hurt and angered" at the White House order.

The Times added that Hickel has met privately with the President only once since May 6, when he sent a controversial letter to Nixon suggesting that the administration was not sufficiently concerned with the attitude of young people.

One official said Nixon proposed during that meeting—on May 28—that Hickel run for his old job as governor of Alaska, but that Hickel had rejected the idea.

Body Of Another Reporter Found In Battle Zone

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System says Cambodian authorities have found the body of CBS News reporter-producer Gerald Miller in a grave near Tran Knar, about 34 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

A CBS spokesman said Friday Miller's body was exhumed near the site where the body of CBS correspondent George Syvertsen was found June 3.

The bodies of two other men, believed to be those of CBS cameraman Ramnik Lekhi and a Cambodian driver, San Leng, were also found at the site of a May 30 ambush. The fates of four other newsmen involved in the ambush have not been determined.

Finch Planning 'Progress' Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch plans to launch an extensive publicity campaign to erase any impression he was a failure as secretary of health, education and welfare.

"I'm going to be meeting with a lot of press members in the next few days," the outgoing secretary said Friday.

As he made the statement, the department handed out a list of 67 "initiatives and accomplishments" made during Finch's term as head of HEW.

Finch becomes a presidential counselor next week. President Nixon named Elliot L. Richardson to succeed Finch. Richardson, who won unanimous approval Friday from the Senate Finance Committee, is expected to be confirmed by the full Senate next week.

Finch criticized press reports that he "copped out" of the Welfare Department job or was kicked upstairs to the White House.

"I happen to think we have accomplished a great deal in the past 16 months," he said. He cietd a revolutionary reform plan currently stalled in Congress as a major accomplishment.

The department listed a doubling of Southern school desegregation, reorganization of the Food and Drug Administration and creation of a new engineering agency as some of the positive actions taken under Finch's stewardship.

Finch's White House tasks include supervising U.S. aid for Peruvian earthquake victims and planning post-Vietnam domestic priorities.

Anti-War Senators Face New Challenge Over Cambodia Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-war senators may face another administration-backed challenge before a final vote is taken on a proposal to restrict presidential war powers in Cambodia.

Asst. Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan indicated Friday he would attempt to eliminate a provision of the Cooper-Church amendment designed to bar U.S. financial support for nations aiding the shaky Cambodian government.

Will Take "Soundings"

Griffin said at one point Friday he wanted to take soundings to see if his amendment would be an exercise in futility. Later, he indicated he may call it up Tuesday for a vote on Wednesday.

The final vote on the amendment by John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, probably will come late next week.

The antiwar forces, who scored a 52-47 victory over a key administration-backed amendment on Thursday, are confident they can turn back the Griffin amendment and any other proposals designed to water down the Cooper-Church amendment.

Approval Urged

President Nixon has urged approval of a provision like Griffin's, presumably to enable the United States to pick up the tab for Thailand and other Asian nations seeking to aid Cambodia.

A battery of other amendments to the military sale authorization bill—vehicle for the Cooper-Church amendment and the five-week debate on U.S. involvement in Cambodia—may be considered first, including proposals designed to curb U.S. weapons sales to Greece and to prevent shipment of chemical weapons from Okinawa to the United States.

Amendments Rayoed

Fear that prospects for sale of jet planes to Israel might be jeopardized led the Senate to defeat by wide margins Friday a pair of amendments by Sen. John J. Qilliams, R-Del.

It rejected 56 to 6 his proposal to knock the money out of the bill—designed to force the executive branch to submit item-by-item lists of proposed sales for future congressional approval—and defeated 59 to 1 his move to delete language expressing congressional support for arms sales to Israel.

President Backed

After the first vote, Williams said it meant the Senate was willing to let the President sell arms to any nation in the world, including Communist China and Russia. "They feel that the President knows best," he said.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., replied, "I don't really feel it has all these broad, deep connotations."

Viet Cong Use Sacred Temples

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian military spokesman said today that the Viet Cong were setting up hospitals and storage areas in the famed temple ruins at Angkor, 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

He also said more Viet Cong were massing near Kompong Speu, a provincial capital on the only highway open between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's major port.

Maj. Am Rong said villagers in the Angkor area had told of the Viet Cong installations there and had reported fighting between Cambodian and Communist forces in the temple complex. He said he did not know which temples the Viet Cong were using as hospitals and storage areas.

The major said the Communist troops "don't respect our sacred place. Making storage areas and hospitals in temples is not only a serious matter to us but to all those interested in cultural aspects of Temples".

Fighting continued for the second day today at Kompong Speu, a provincial capital on Route 4, the only highway still open between Phnom Penh and the port city of Kompong Som.

Kent U. Graduates Told Many Suffer For Dissenting Few

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University President Robert I. White told 1,250 graduates today there must be an end to racism and a narrowing of the generation gap, and that extremists must learn that constructive change is possible.

He also warned the graduates, attending commencement exercises under tight security, that the public tends to blame all college students for the destruction committed by a few.

The commencement was the first major event on campus since a court order closed the university following the shooting deaths of four students May 4 during a confrontation with the Ohio National Guard.

The campus security force was tripled for the event, although officials said there was no indication there would be trouble. The court order that closed the campus was relaxed further to permit holding a summer session scheduled to start June 22.

Estimated 700 Persons Dead Or Wounded

Scattered firing broke out today in Jordan after a day of calm that followed a cease-fire agreement between King Hussein and Palestinian guerrillas.

It could not be determined if the firing signified renewed fighting in the Jordanian capital, Amman. The gunshots were heard as the evacuation of the foreign community continued.

Plane Chartered

One plane chartered by the International Committee of the Red Cross left Amman for Beirut. It carried 90 wives and children of U.N. personnel in Jordan as well as a group of Americans who were unable to make two planes that left Friday night with U.S. citizens aboard.

Two more planeloads carrying 120 British dependents were expected to leave Amman later today. Foreigners leaving Jordan are doing so voluntarily for their own safety and not at the request of the Jordanian government.

Warning Issued

Throughout the morning, Amman radio appealed to the population to beware of groups attempting to spread false rumors and create more chaos.

The broadcast said, however, that the situation was calm in all parts of the country.

Amman radio also quoted a directive from the Foreign Ministry of Jordanian embassies abroad asserting that normalcy had returned and that all signs of tension had disappeared in the capital.

Tensions appeared to have eased in Amman Friday after an Arab guerrilla leader freed 62 foreign hostages, saying he was satisfied with concessions made by King Hussein.

Rubble Everywhere

Travelers from the embattled city reported that after five days of virtual war between Jordanian troops and guerrillas the streets were filled with rubble, wrecked vehicles and bodies. An estimated 700 persons were killed or wounded in the strife, touched off by an army crackdown on guerrilla activities.

The hostages—21 Americans, 35 Britons and 6 West Germans —were told by Dr. George Habash, head of the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, that Hussein had met the group's demands and they were free to go.

Major Concession

Hussein made a major concession to the guerrillas Thursday when he dismissed his uncle and his cousin from command of important army units. There was no indication that Hussein acceded to a guerrilla demand that he renounce his commitment to a political settlement of the Arab nations' dispute with Israel.

Most of the 145 Americans flown out of Amman aboard two Lebanese airliners were women and children. All but 10 of them flew to Ahtens after a brief stopover in Beirut, the Lebanese capital. Among those who went to Athens were the widow and children of Army Maj. Robert P. Perry of Chicago, the U.S. military attache killed by guerrillas who invaded his home in Amman Wednesday.

The State Department in Washington said about 200 American citizens remained in Amman, and a spokesman said any decision on whether to evacuate them would be made by the U.S. charge d'affaires in the Jordanian capital.

Approval Urged

President Nixon has urged approval of a provision like Griffin's, presumably to enable the United States to pick up the tab for Thailand and other Asian nations seeking to aid Cambodia.

A battery of other amendments to the military sale authorization bill—vehicle for the Cooper-Church amendment and the five-week debate on U.S. involvement in Cambodia—may be considered first, including proposals designed to curb U.S. weapons sales to Greece and to prevent shipment of chemical weapons from Okinawa to the United States.

Amendments Rayoed

Fear that prospects for sale of jet planes to Israel might be jeopardized led the Senate to defeat by wide margins Friday a pair of amendments by Sen. John J. Qilliams, R-Del.

It rejected 56 to 6 his proposal to knock the money out of the bill—designed to force the executive branch to submit item-by-item lists of proposed sales for future congressional approval—and defeated 59 to 1 his move to delete language expressing congressional support for arms sales to Israel.

President Backed

After the first vote, Williams said it meant the Senate was willing to let the President sell arms to any nation in the world, including Communist China and Russia. "They feel that the President knows best," he said.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., replied, "I don't really feel it has all these broad, deep connotations."

Viet Cong Use Sacred Temples

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian military spokesman said today that the Viet Cong were setting up hospitals and storage areas in the famed temple ruins at Angkor, 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

He also said more Viet Cong were massing near Kompong Speu, a provincial capital on the only highway open between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's major port.

Maj. Am Rong said villagers in the Angkor area had told of the Viet Cong installations there and had reported fighting between Cambodian and Communist forces in the temple complex. He said he did not know which temples the Viet Cong were using as hospitals and storage areas.

The major said the Communist troops "don't respect our sacred place. Making storage areas and hospitals in temples is not only a serious matter to us but to all those interested in cultural aspects of Temples".

Fighting continued for the second day today at Kompong Speu, a provincial capital on Route 4, the only highway still open between Phnom Penh and the port city of Kompong Som.

Kent U. Graduates Told Many Suffer For Dissenting Few

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University President Robert I. White told 1,250 graduates today there must be an end to racism and a narrowing of the generation gap, and that extremists must learn that constructive change is possible.

He also warned the graduates, attending commencement exercises under tight security, that the public tends to blame all college students for the destruction committed by a few.

The commencement was the first major event on campus since a court order closed the university following the shooting deaths of four students May 4 during a confrontation with the Ohio National Guard.

The campus security force was tripled for the event, although officials said there was no indication there would be trouble. The court order that closed the campus was relaxed further to permit holding a summer session scheduled to start June 22.

Finch Planning 'Progress' Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch plans to launch an extensive publicity campaign to erase any impression he was a failure as secretary of health, education and welfare.

"I'm going to be meeting with a lot of press members in the next few days," the outgoing secretary said Friday.

As he made the statement, the department handed out a list of 67 "initiatives and accomplishments" made during Finch's term as head of HEW.

Finch becomes a presidential counselor next week. President Nixon named Elliot L. Richardson to succeed Finch. Richardson, who won unanimous approval Friday from the Senate Finance Committee, is expected to be confirmed by the full Senate next week.

Finch criticized press reports that he "copped out" of the Welfare Department job or was kicked upstairs to the White House.

"I happen to think we have accomplished a great deal in the past 16 months," he said. He cietd a revolutionary reform plan currently stalled in Congress as a major accomplishment.

The department listed a doubling of Southern school desegregation, reorganization of the Food and Drug Administration and creation of a new engineering agency as some of the positive actions taken under Finch's stewardship.

Finch's White House tasks include supervising U.S. aid for Peruvian earthquake victims and planning post-Vietnam domestic priorities.

Scattered firing broke out today in Jordan after a day of calm that followed a cease-fire agreement between King Hussein and Palestinian guerrillas.

It could not be determined if the firing signified renewed fighting in the Jordanian capital, Amman. The gunshots were heard as the evacuation of the foreign community continued.

Plane Chartered

One plane chartered by the International Committee of the Red Cross left Amman for Beirut. It carried 90 wives and children of U.N. personnel in Jordan as well as a group of Americans who were unable to make two planes that left Friday night with U.S. citizens aboard.

Two more planeloads carrying 120 British dependents were expected to leave Amman later today. Foreigners leaving Jordan are doing so voluntarily for their own safety and not at the request of the Jordanian government.

Warning Issued

Throughout the morning, Amman radio appealed to the population to beware of groups attempting to spread false rumors and create more chaos.

The broadcast said, however, that the situation was calm in all parts of the country.

Amman radio also quoted a directive from the Foreign Ministry of Jordanian embassies abroad asserting that normalcy had returned and that all signs of tension had disappeared in the capital.

Tensions appeared to have eased in Amman Friday after an Arab guerrilla leader freed 62 foreign hostages, saying he was satisfied with concessions made by King Hussein.

Rubble Everywhere

Travelers from the embattled city reported that after five days of virtual war between Jordanian troops and guerrillas the streets were filled with rubble, wrecked vehicles and bodies. An estimated 700 persons were killed or wounded in the strife, touched off by an army crackdown on guerrilla activities.

The hostages--21 Americans, 35 Britons and 6 West Germans —were told by Dr. George Habash, head of the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, that Hussein had met the group's demands and they were free to go.

Major Concession

Hussein made a major concession to the guerrillas Thursday when he dismissed his uncle and his cousin from command of important army units. There was no indication that Hussein acceded to a guerrilla demand that he renounce his commitment to a political settlement of the Arab nations' dispute with Israel.

Most of the 145 Americans flown out of Amman aboard two Lebanese airliners were women and children. All but 10 of them flew to Ahtens after a brief stopover in Beirut, the Lebanese capital. Among those who went to Athens were the widow and children of Army Maj. Robert P. Perry of Chicago, the U.S. military attache killed by guerrillas who invaded his home in Amman Wednesday.

The State Department in Washington said about 200 American citizens remained in Amman, and a spokesman said any decision on whether to evacuate them would be made by the U.S. charge d'affaires in the Jordanian capital.

Alaskan Oil Boom Jolted By Setback

SEATTLE (AP) — Alaska's efforts to get its arctic oil riches to market hit a serious setback Friday when four oil firms rejected state terms for joint construction of an access road for a proposed pipeline.

"It's an irritating development that carries with it serious problems for Alaska," said Alaska Gov. Keith Miller after officials of the Trans Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS), a consortium of four oil companies, told him their decision.

Construction of the 800-mile pipeline can't begin until an access road is carved through isolated tundra on federal land between the Yukon River and the North Slope. And until the $900 million pipeline is carrying oil to the ice-free port of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska, the state cannot collect royalties or severance taxes from its oil reserves.

The 300-mile road was to have been built by the state, which would have been reimbursed by TAPS.

Miller proposed the plan when TAPS was blocked by a federal court injunction obtained by conservation groups and red tape from obtaining a right-of-way over federal land. The state could build it legally without federal approval, Miller said.

But the hitch came last week when the Alaska Legislature decided TAPS must repay the $120 million cost of the project within five years at 7.5 per cent interest as a condition for state participation.

The firms—Atlantic-Richfield, British Petroleum, Standard Oil of Ohio and Humble Oil—said the condition "prevents our participation" in the project.

Conservationists claim the proposed pipeline would block the massive caribou migrations of the area. They also fear that a rupture of the line would wreak havoc with the delicate balance of nature on the tundra.

The Interior Department, headed by former Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel, has promised a pipeline permit when TAPS supplies data proving the line will not harm Alaska's fragile arctic ecology. Miller said Friday he was told the data will not be ready until as late as next year.

The fourth annual summer pre-school program will be conducted at the Washington School for students beginning kindergarten in September. The program will begin on Monday, June 22 and continue until Friday, July 31.

Woodcock Raps Nixon Choice For Labor Secretary

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers Union, said today the union found it "curious that a management man," James Hodgson, had been named Secretary of Labor by President Nixon to succeed George P. Shultz, a former University of Chicago dean.

Hodgson, a former Lockheed Aircraft executive, was promoted from undersecretary of labor.

"The UAW," Woodcock said in a statement, "does not question the integrity of Mr. Hodgson.

"But," he added, "we do find it curious that a management man becomes charged with the vital function of protecting and furthering, consistent with the national interest, the well-being of American working men and women."

The court in effect, writes your will for you. If you have minor children the court decides which relatives (guardian) will raise your children. When no will is left, checking and savings accounts are often immediately frozen . . . many times for years! Expensive court costs, legal fees and seemingly unending trips to court. Stocks, property, automobile titles — all tied up! The problems are too numerous to list here.

Medicenter Receives JCAH Accreditation

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has notified the Escanaba Medicenter of its accreditation as an extended care facility, Joseph N. Heller, administrator of the facility announced today.

JCAH is a non-profit, voluntary organization created to establish standards for operation of medical facilities and to see that these standards are maintained by the accredited facilities.

"We at the Escanaba Medicenter are extremely pleased to have measured up to the exacting standards of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals," Heller said. "Our recognition by the commission is indicative of our continual efforts to maintain the very best in medical care.

"JCAH certification is an indication that the Escanaba Medicenter voluntarily submits its operations to the review of an outside organization with stringent requirements dedicated to the highest standards of medical care."

The Escanaba Medicenter has been accredited under the special category for extended care facilities, which was set up as an independent review category on Jan. 1, 1968.

Criteria for this category include the establishment of an organized medical staff, with a professional nursing staff, and the provision of comprehensive in-patient care of a relatively short-term duration for convalescent patients.

"We would like to express our gratitude to the people of the Escanaba area for their acceptance of the Medicenter as a part of the medical community of this city," Heller said.

Heller also announced that in the year that the Escanaba Medicenter has been in operation it has provided over 9,356 days of patient care.

Suggests Probe Of State Water Resources Group

BAY CITY (AP)—An investigation of the Michigan Water Resources Commission has been called for by a man who claims the commission has been "permissive toward industry."

Rick Magnus of Manistee, secretary of the Manistee County Antipollution Organization, made the charge before the Michigan Natural Resources Commission.

Magnus said natural resources are given lesser consideration than industry in the area, and that pollution problems have resulted in Lake Michigan and in Manistee River and Lake.

A total of 58 pipe outlets into Manistee Lake alone were counted by his organization, Magnus said. He claimed two of the pipes were illegal.

In calling for an investigation, Magnus said the Water Resources Commission has not acted with its full authority and has been "permissive toward industry."

Clifford Luft, former superintendent of schools at Hermansville and just about a week ago on the threshold of a new administrative venture as the superintendent-elect of the new consolidated Powers-Spalding-Hermansville school district, is a man without a job today.

He informed Lester Johnson, chairman of the Interim Board of Education which was appointed by the Menominee County Intermediate Board of Education to run the school district until residents could elect a permanent board, that because of the controversy that has arisen since his appointment that he would not accept the position.

"It is best to get a newly reorganized district off to a good start and it will be difficult to get a good start with all this controversy," he said Friday.

Luft's decision, although from a personal standpoint undoubtedly one of the most difficult he has ever been forced to make, is admirable. It shows a genuine concern for the two communities, for the children and for the progress in education which had been hoped through the unification of the two districts and it should be recognized as such.

* * *

It is extremely unfortunate that the problem over the selection of a superintendent had to develop at all, yet because this is only one school district now where two districts existed just several weeks ago it was almost inevitable. There can be only one superintendent per district and besides Luft, who was the administrative leader at Hermansville, Jerome Albright carried the necessary credentials as superintendent of the former Powers-Spalding district.

The choice of Luft was made by the Interim Board.

And then the fireworks started. A Committee to Save Our Consolidated Schools was formed in an effort to exert the public pressure necessary on the Interim Board of Education for a reconsideration. Meetings have been held, letters have been written, charges have been leveled — the most serious, perhaps, that the Menominee County Intermediate Board of Education was persuaded to stack the Interim Board with enough anti-Albright members to insure he would not be appointed — and people in the district have grown quite excited about the problem.

Luft's decision made public Friday should, at least, ease the tension for a couple of days. But the problem hasn't gone away.

* * *

The immediate reaction is to suggest that the Interim Board avoid the appointment of a superintendent and leave the responsibility to the permanent Board of Education to be elected July 20. Practically, however, that poses some problems.

There is a great deal of work that goes along with organizing a new school district, all the way from preparing class assignments for students and teachers to devising transportation schedules. There may not be time for a new school board to organize, interview candidates and reach a decision after the July 20 election and still get the school district doors open on schedule this fall.

There is also the problem of leaving applicants for the job waiting until so late in the summer. By that time, if an applicant is not selected, it may be too late for him to obtain another administrative job. Schools operate on a July 1-June 30 fiscal year and by late July or early August administrative staffs are usually solid for the coming year. Waiting until late July or August before a decision also would leave the present applicants without a job — and income — for at least a month, not a very cheery prospect.

* * *

The Interim Board of Education meets again Monday and the superintendent situation without a question will hold top priority. What's the answer? There probably isn't one which would be totally satisfactory. Maybe it's to name a new superintendent now and stand by him. Maybe it's to name an interim superintendent to serve as long as the interim board and to let the permanent board name a permanent superintendent. Maybe it's to wait until the new board is elected, hiring the clerical and administrative help as necessary to keep the district from sinking before it puts to sea. Maybe there is another answer.

Whatever the decision, if a decision is forthcoming, there is one thing which should be stressed — unity. Residents of the two communities voted to join forces in a single school district in an effort to provide higher quality education and greater educational opportunity for their children. That thought should remain uppermost in all deliberations and action.

Votes Show Support For Nixon On War

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some of the more objective political pros, looking at the recent primaries, tend to think there is a "law of the spectrum" at work which continues to favor center-to-right-leaning candidates over those of the left.

The students may make the noise; the dove "bugout" Senators may get the headlines. And the decibel count has its observable effect on the country, which has been growing uneasy about the length of the Vietnamese War.

But, despite the psychological war weariness, it is still true that in most of the recent Senate and House of Representatives primaries and even in intrastate battles the voters have favored the less dovish of two alternative candidates.

Texas saw the "law of the spectrum" at work when the incumbent Democratic Sen. Ralph Yarborough, liberalissimo of liberalissimos, was knocked off his party primary by the more conservative former Rep. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. In Pennsylanvia Democratic senatorial primary, in which the Cambodian issue figured rather prominently, the "peace candidate," Norval D. Reece ("Reece for Peace"), was beaten two-to-one by State Sen. William Sesler who has been a moderate on Vietnam.

Though school busing and the issue of "black power" bloc were uppermost in the minds of Alabamans who gave their majority preference to George Wallace for governor, the desire to leave Vietnam with honor has been stressed by Wallace in the past. In a way, the Wallace campaign was a "national" one, its objective being to warn President Nixon to stick to the right in foreign policy as well as in the busing conteretempts.

* * *

..It could be argued that the Democratic gubernatorial primary, which left the hawkish Mayor Sam Yorty out in the cold in his attempt to wrest the nomination from superdove Jesse Unruh, indicated a clearly definable peace-next-week drift. But Sen. George Murphy, campaigning as "Nixon's man," rather decisively outpointed the millionaire dove, Norton Simon in the Republican primary.

And the most vociferous dove, Rep. George Brown, who had been calling for Nixon's impeachment on the Cambodian issue, lost out in the Democratic senatorial primary to Rep. John V. Tunney, who, though an opponent of continued U.S. military involment in Asia, was considerably less adamant and bilious than his opponent when mentioning the war.

Incidentally, Tunney's father, the former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, has always been of the fervent anti-Communists around. If it weren't for his son's involvement, Gene Tunney would most likely be in George Murphy's corner. Possibly the California voters sense a parental modifying force in John Tunney's background.

* * *

The commentators spoke of the conservative Anderson Carter's victory over liberal Governor David Cargo in the New Mexico Republican senatorial primary as an "upset." However, it could have been the normal 1970 operation of the "law of the spectrum" in a Sun Belt state that may be following its next-door neighbor Arizona into the permanent Republican fold.

In the Northeast, in New Jersey, it was quickly noted that the extreme dove, Lewis Kaden, couldn't beat Rep. Edward Patten, a traditional anti-leftist Democrat, in the 15th Congressional District primary even though Kaden had scores of Princeton and Rutgers undergraduates out pulling for him.

The Kaden defeat followed the "law of the spectrum" as it affected most of New Jersey. True enough, the more liberal Republican candidate to take the Congressional seat vacated by Republican Governor Cahill won in the Burlington-Camden-Ocean County area. Yet the contest was close. Despite the fact that he had no Republican organization going for him, the more conservative Walter Smith made a very respectable showing against the liberal Edwin Forsythe, even winning by 8,978 to 7,194 in the single county of Burlington.

* * *

Elsewhere in New Jersey the "law of the spectrum" clearly favored the center-leaning candidates. Democratic Congressman Cornelius Gallagher slaughtered the 26-year-old peace candidate, David Wolf. In the New Jersey senatorial primaries all of the contestants were war-weary men. But the less vociferous candidates, Democrat Harrison Williams and Republican Nelson Gross, defeated opponents who would have caused Richard Nixon more trouble if they had won.

To sum things up, the country wants to get out of the war. Nevertheless, it is apparently willing to let Nixon get us out at his own rate of speed and on the well-known Nixon terms of honor.

Letters To The Press

YOUNG AND OLD

I have read so much lately in the papers and have heard on the radio about the campus riots and of how the kids have gone bad today, about the terrible things they are doing.

I have heard many people say "We never did this when we were young." If the kids do somethin good, hardly anyone hears about it. But if a few get in trouble, it seems like all the young people take part of the blame.

Walk down main street some time. Count the sloppy and dirty ones and count the nice ones and you will find there are many more good ones.

I have heard it said many times, the kids are just plain no good. Well, the Lord is still turning out the same Grade A product he has since Adam and Eve. It's what we do with them after they are born that sets their way of life. We mold them, we help them to learn self respect and respect of others, to give the good moral standards, to discipline them when they need it and above all to love them. Have you heard of many delinquents who know they are well loved and wanted by their parents? They are fewer than hen's teeth.

I'm not defending the things some of the young people are doing; they are very wrong. But this is only a very small part of the younger generation.

We are so quick to criticize them, but we are mostly to blame. Adults make the movies that are so degrading that they make a normal person sick. Our young people are permitted to see these films.

We set the rules we expect them to follow and then proceed to break them all ourselves because we are adults. We want them to keep their minds and bodies clean, but how can they, really, with the things they see everyday — sometimes even in their own homes. Many of us don't have time for our children. We have too many other things to do, so we just let them grow and hope for the best.

Sometime a child will get into trouble even though the parents tried very hard to bring them up right. But those, I think, are only a few of the young people. Give them a good foundation and they will grow good and strong.

We have 13 children and all are at home. We love them, one and all. We don't have much to offer them as things of the world go, but with the Lord's help we will bring them up to be good citizens. If something goes wrong with any of them we will stand by them and give them the strength to try again. We don't always understand them, but we try.

The young people today will soon by our leaders and what kind of leaders they will be is mostly up to the parents.

Church Refuses To Be Repository For Draft Cards

HOLLAND (AP)—The general synod of the Reformed Church in America has refused to become a repository for draft cards turned in by youths opposing the draft.

Synod delegates voted 190-50 with 14 abstaining this week to reject a request from a group of youths protesting the war in Vietnam who had urged the synod's members to "put yourself on the line in support of us because we want to do this through the church."

A church spokesman said debate on the controversial issue was generally calm. The spokesman said most delegates indicated their sympathy for the youths but expressed their unwillingness to participate in an act of civil disobedience.

The most heated moment during debate on the draft card resolution came when some delegates tried to bar a Grand Rapids television crew from filming the discussion.

A motion was made to exclude the newsmen from covering the debate but it was defeated 139-100.

Sen. Phillip Hart In Ring, Officially

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Philup A. Hart, D-Mich., has announced he is a candidate for reelection to a third term in the U.S. Senate.

Hart, 57, is chairman of two Senate subcommittees: Antitrust and Monopoly and Environmental. His opponent in November is expected to be Lenore Romney, wife of the former Michigan governor, George Romney. She has received the endorsement of Republican party leaders, but faces a primary test in August from Sen. Robert Huber, R-Troy.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Declarer has lots to think about in some hands. For example, take this deal where declarer can make many pertinent observations before playing a card from dummy:

1. He starts with eight sure tricks and sees that the contract is cold if he takes a diamond finesse and it succeeds.

2. All hands where West has the king of diamonds are therefore of no concern, since there are twelve tricks available in that case. The play must be planned on the basis that East has the king of diamonds.

3. Which spade should South play from dummy? This depends on who he thinks has the ace. Actually this question is not difficult to solve. West must have it because, according to the Rule of Eleven, East can have only one card higher than the seven, which cannot be the ace, for that would give West the J-10-9-7—and he would have led the jack in such case.

4. If declarer plays the queen it will therefore hold the trick, but he is then subject to defeat when East returns a spade after the diamond finesse fails. The alternative play of the five must therefore be considered.

5. The contract is completely safe if the spades are divided 4-4, so the only hands to worry about are those where the spades are divided 5-3 or 6-2.

6. If they are 5-3, the contract cannot be made against proper defense, so this possibility is excluded from consideration.

7. If the spades are 6-2, the contract cannot be defeated if a low spade is played from dummy and East is permitted to win the trick. In the actual hand, this play results in making ten tricks.

In effect, declarer ignores all cases where his course of play makes no difference. By concentrating on hands where his choice of plays matters, he gives himself the opportunity to make all hands that can be made.

Ice Cooler Chests Ruled Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ice chest manufacturers whose products are designed for beer, sandwiches and other picnic items will build emergency escape devices into their new models in an effort to prevent additional deaths among toddlers who have been trapped inside.

At least 16 children have suffocated in picnic coolers since 1961, the Commerce Department reported Thursday. Officials think many other cases may not have made it into the department's records.

Asst. Secretary of Commerce Myron E. Tribus said manufacturers "Have very willingly joined with us" in setting voluntary safety standards that will go into effect with next year's models since most of the coolers to be sold this year have already been manufactured.

Girl Fears Snoring Will Ruin Marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem I have never seen in your column. I have a real hangup on people who snore. I know where it came from. My mother was widowed when I was five years old. Two years later she married a man I hated. He snored so loud it used to shake the house. I remember lying awake at night and wishing I could put a pillow over his face or stuff a washrag in his mouth. My mother divorced him after three years and I was so happy I cried.

When I went to camp at age 12, I was in a bunk with a girl who snored. I asked to be transferred to another bunk. The counselor said she wouldn't tell the girls why I moved. I promised to keep it a secret and I did.

I realize I have this thing about snoring and now — at age 16 — I am wondering what if I marry a guy who snores? Is there any sure way to find out BEFORE marriage? Please advise. — Worried in Huchinson

Dear Worried: Yes, there is. But I don't recommend it. If the snoring is caused by an obstruction a doctor might be able to help. If there is no obstruction a gentle nudge, or moving the snorer's head to another position usually produces results. As a last resort, ear-plugs can be helpful.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: I think I'm the "divorcee" that Lansing mother is worried about. Only I am not a divorcee. My husband was killed in Vietnam. The mother is concerned because her 16-year-old son is spending too much time over here. You told her not to get hysterical — and to have a low-key chat with the boy. I don't agree with your advise, Ann.

The trouble with that mother is she has done too much "chatting" and not enough listening. The boy comes over to my house because he needs someone to talk to. It's pathetic the way he pours out his heart to me. It's obvious nobody else will give him a chance to talk.

She doesn't need to worry about him sowing any wild oats over here. I am his "mother confessor" and nothing more. I'm highly flattered that she has such notions. The boy doesn't, so she can relax that score.

A great many parents feel they should do all the talking. And this is why so many kids go outside the family to express their feelings. Tell it like it is.—Lansing.

Dear Lansing: You did and I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am very hurt and I need your help. A card club I have belonged to for five years disbanded last month. I couldn't understand why. I heard yesterday that the club is now meeting again and they have asked someone in my place. The reason: They resented my huband. Since his retirement he has been kibitzing the game when the women played at our home. I didn't realize the women didn't like to have him around. The truth is, he has no interests now other than mine. I hate to admit it, but he has been getting on my nerves, too. What should be done? — Fort Lauderdale

Dear Fort: More women are writing about this problem now than ever before. I urge you all to make every effort to get your retired husbands involved in activities that will take them away from the house. Florida has some good Golden Age Clubs. There are volunteer jobs to be done. Investigate. Look in the phone book under Organizations. Check them out with the Chamber of Commerce. Don't let HIS retirement ruin your life.

But, despite the psychological war weariness, it is still true that in most of the recent Senate and House of Representatives primaries and even in intrastate battles the voters have favored the less dovish of two alternative candidates.

Texas saw the "law of the spectrum" at work when the incumbent Democratic Sen. Ralph Yarborough, liberalissimo of liberalissimos, was knocked off his party primary by the more conservative former Rep. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. In Pennsylanvia Democratic senatorial primary, in which the Cambodian issue figured rather prominently, the "peace candidate," Norval D. Reece ("Reece for Peace"), was beaten two-to-one by State Sen. William Sesler who has been a moderate on Vietnam.

Though school busing and the issue of "black power" bloc were uppermost in the minds of Alabamans who gave their majority preference to George Wallace for governor, the desire to leave Vietnam with honor has been stressed by Wallace in the past. In a way, the Wallace campaign was a "national" one, its objective being to warn President Nixon to stick to the right in foreign policy as well as in the busing conteretempts.

★ ★ ★

It could be argued that the Democratic gubernatorial primary, which left the hawkish Mayor Sam Yorty out in the cold in his attempt to wrest the nomination from superdove Jesse Unruh, indicated a clearly definable peace-next-week drift. But Sen. George Murphy, campaigning as "Nixon's man," rather decisively outpointed the millionaire dove, Norton Simon in the Republican primary.

And the most vociferous dove, Rep. George Brown, who had been calling for Nixon's impeachment on the Cambodian issue, lost out in the Democratic senatorial primary to Rep. John V. Tunney, who, though an opponent of continued U.S. military involment in Asia, was considerably less adamant and bilious than his opponent when mentioning the war.

Incidentally, Tunney's father, the former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, has always been of the fervent anti-Communists around. If it weren't for his son's involvement, Gene Tunney would most likely be in George Murphy's corner. Possibly the California voters sense a parental modifying force in John Tunney's background.

The commentators spoke of the conservative Anderson Carter's victory over liberal Governor David Cargo in the New Mexico Republican senatorial primary as an "upset." However, it could have been the normal 1970 operation of the "law of the spectrum" in a Sun Belt state that may be following its next-door neighbor Arizona into the permanent Republican fold.

In the Northeast, in New Jersey, it was quickly noted that the extreme dove, Lewis Kaden, couldn't beat Rep. Edward Patten, a traditional anti-leftist Democrat, in the 15th Congressional District primary even though Kaden had scores of Princeton and Rutgers undergraduates out pulling for him.

The Kaden defeat followed the "law of the spectrum" as it affected most of New Jersey. True enough, the more liberal Republican candidate to take the Congressional seat vacated by Republican Governor Cahill won in the Burlington-Camden-Ocean County area. Yet the contest was close. Despite the fact that he had no Republican organization going for him, the more conservative Walter Smith made a very respectable showing against the liberal Edwin Forsythe, even winning by 8,978 to 7,194 in the single county of Burlington.

Elsewhere in New Jersey the "law of the spectrum" clearly favored the center-leaning candidates. Democratic Congressman Cornelius Gallagher slaughtered the 26-year-old peace candidate, David Wolf. In the New Jersey senatorial primaries all of the contestants were war-weary men. But the less vociferous candidates, Democrat Harrison Williams and Republican Nelson Gross, defeated opponents who would have caused Richard Nixon more trouble if they had won.

To sum things up, the country wants to get out of the war. Nevertheless, it is apparently willing to let Nixon get us out at his own rate of speed and on the well-known Nixon terms of honor.

Letters To The Press

YOUNG AND OLD

I have read so much lately in the papers and have heard on the radio about the campus riots and of how the kids have gone bad today, about the terrible things they are doing.

I have heard many people say "We never did this when we were young." If the kids do somethin good, hardly anyone hears about it. But if a few get in trouble, it seems like all the young people take part of the blame.

Walk down main street some time. Count the sloppy and dirty ones and count the nice ones and you will find there are many more good ones.

I have heard it said many times, the kids are just plain no good. Well, the Lord is still turning out the same Grade A product he has since Adam and Eve. It's what we do with them after they are born that sets their way of life. We mold them, we help them to learn self respect and respect of others, to give the good moral standards, to discipline them when they need it and above all to love them. Have you heard of many delinquents who know they are well loved and wanted by their parents? They are fewer than hen's teeth.

I'm not defending the things some of the young people are doing; they are very wrong. But this is only a very small part of the younger generation.

We are so quick to criticize them, but we are mostly to blame. Adults make the movies that are so degrading that they make a normal person sick. Our young people are permitted to see these films.

We set the rules we expect them to follow and then proceed to break them all ourselves because we are adults. We want them to keep their minds and bodies clean, but how can they, really, with the things they see everyday — sometimes even in their own homes. Many of us don't have time for our children. We have too many other things to do, so we just let them grow and hope for the best.

Sometime a child will get into trouble even though the parents tried very hard to bring them up right. But those, I think, are only a few of the young people. Give them a good foundation and they will grow good and strong.

We have 13 children and all are at home. We love them, one and all. We don't have much to offer them as things of the world go, but with the Lord's help we will bring them up to be good citizens. If something goes wrong with any of them we will stand by them and give them the strength to try again. We don't always understand them, but we try.

The young people today will soon by our leaders and what kind of leaders they will be is mostly up to the parents.

Church Refuses To Be Repository For Draft Cards

HOLLAND (AP)—The general synod of the Reformed Church in America has refused to become a repository for draft cards turned in by youths opposing the draft.

Synod delegates voted 190-50 with 14 abstaining this week to reject a request from a group of youths protesting the war in Vietnam who had urged the synod's members to "put yourself on the line in support of us because we want to do this through the church."

A church spokesman said debate on the controversial issue was generally calm. The spokesman said most delegates indicated their sympathy for the youths but expressed their unwillingness to participate in an act of civil disobedience.

The most heated moment during debate on the draft card resolution came when some delegates tried to bar a Grand Rapids television crew from filming the discussion.

A motion was made to exclude the newsmen from covering the debate but it was defeated 139-100.

Sen. Phillip Hart In Ring, Officially

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Philup A. Hart, D-Mich., has announced he is a candidate for reelection to a third term in the U.S. Senate.

Hart, 57, is chairman of two Senate subcommittees: Antitrust and Monopoly and Environmental. His opponent in November is expected to be Lenore Romney, wife of the former Michigan governor, George Romney. She has received the endorsement of Republican party leaders, but faces a primary test in August from Sen. Robert Huber, R-Troy.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Declarer has lots to think about in some hands. For example, take this deal where declarer can make many pertinent observations before playing a card from dummy:

1. He starts with eight sure tricks and sees that the contract is cold if he takes a diamond finesse and it succeeds.

2. All hands where West has the king of diamonds are therefore of no concern, since there are twelve tricks available in that case. The play must be planned on the basis that East has the king of diamonds.

3. Which spade should South play from dummy? This depends on who he thinks has the ace. Actually this question is not difficult to solve. West must have it because, according to the Rule of Eleven, East can have only one card higher than the seven, which cannot be the ace, for that would give West the J-10-9-7—and he would have led the jack in such case.

4. If declarer plays the queen it will therefore hold the trick, but he is then subject to defeat when East returns a spade after the diamond finesse fails. The alternative play of the five must therefore be considered.

5. The contract is completely safe if the spades are divided 4-4, so the only hands to worry about are those where the spades are divided 5-3 or 6-2.

6. If they are 5-3, the contract cannot be made against proper defense, so this possibility is excluded from consideration.

7. If the spades are 6-2, the contract cannot be defeated if a low spade is played from dummy and East is permitted to win the trick. In the actual hand, this play results in making ten tricks.

In effect, declarer ignores all cases where his course of play makes no difference. By concentrating on hands where his choice of plays matters, he gives himself the opportunity to make all hands that can be made.

Ice Cooler Chests Ruled Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ice chest manufacturers whose products are designed for beer, sandwiches and other picnic items will build emergency escape devices into their new models in an effort to prevent additional deaths among toddlers who have been trapped inside.

At least 16 children have suffocated in picnic coolers since 1961, the Commerce Department reported Thursday. Officials think many other cases may not have made it into the department's records.

Asst. Secretary of Commerce Myron E. Tribus said manufacturers "Have very willingly joined with us" in setting voluntary safety standards that will go into effect with next year's models since most of the coolers to be sold this year have already been manufactured.

Girl Fears Snoring Will Ruin Marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem I have never seen in your column. I have a real hangup on people who snore. I know where it came from. My mother was widowed when I was five years old. Two years later she married a man I hated. He snored so loud it used to shake the house. I remember lying awake at night and wishing I could put a pillow over his face or stuff a washrag in his mouth. My mother divorced him after three years and I was so happy I cried.

When I went to camp at age 12, I was in a bunk with a girl who snored. I asked to be transferred to another bunk. The counselor said she wouldn't tell the girls why I moved. I promised to keep it a secret and I did.

I realize I have this thing about snoring and now — at age 16 — I am wondering what if I marry a guy who snores? Is there any sure way to find out BEFORE marriage? Please advise. — Worried in Huchinson

Dear Worried: Yes, there is. But I don't recommend it. If the snoring is caused by an obstruction a doctor might be able to help. If there is no obstruction a gentle nudge, or moving the snorer's head to another position usually produces results. As a last resort, ear-plugs can be helpful.

Dear Ann Landers: I think I'm the "divorcee" that Lansing mother is worried about. Only I am not a divorcee. My husband was killed in Vietnam. The mother is concerned because her 16-year-old son is spending too much time over here. You told her not to get hysterical — and to have a low-key chat with the boy. I don't agree with your advise, Ann.

The trouble with that mother is she has done too much "chatting" and not enough listening. The boy comes over to my house because he needs someone to talk to. It's pathetic the way he pours out his heart to me. It's obvious nobody else will give him a chance to talk.

She doesn't need to worry about him sowing any wild oats over here. I am his "mother confessor" and nothing more. I'm highly flattered that she has such notions. The boy doesn't, so she can relax that score.

A great many parents feel they should do all the talking. And this is why so many kids go outside the family to express their feelings. Tell it like it is.— Lansing.

Dear Lansing: You did and I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am very hurt and I need your help. A card club I have belonged to for five years disbanded last month. I couldn't understand why. I heard yesterday that the club is now meeting again and they have asked someone in my place. The reason: They resented my huband. Since his retirement he has been kibitzing the game when the women played at our home. I didn't realize the women didn't like to have him around. The truth is, he has no interests now other than mine. I hate to admit it, but he has been getting on my nerves, too. What should be done? — Fort Lauderdale

Dear Fort: More women are writing about this problem now than ever before. I urge you all to make every effort to get your retired husbands involved in activities that will take them away from the house. Florida has some good Golden Age Clubs. There are volunteer jobs to be done. Investigate. Look in the phone book under Organizations. Check them out with the Chamber of Commerce. Don't let HIS retirement ruin your life.

The American Wood Council suggests that home buyers should give careful consideration to roof material. They should ask if the roof is a material that will need replacing in a few years, or if it is a durable covering such as cedar shingles or shakes which will last up to 30 years.

GM Offering Help To Get Rid Of Junk Cars

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A two-month experiment by General Motors Corp. in the vicinity of the northern Michigan resort of Traverse City may provide a solution to the problem of removing abandoned cars from rural areas.

The vehicles create eyesores on the countryside.

For the next eight weeks, GM, in cooperation with its five dealerships in the area, will remove free of charge any automobiles abandoned within 20 miles of Traverse City.

Roger M. Kyes, executive vice president of GM, said the test is to learn whether the company's program for removing abandoned autos is economically feasible.

Company officials estimate there may be 2,000 to 3,000 junked cars within the test area.

The plan calls for anyone owning or spotting an abandoned car to call a company dealer with details.

The dealer takes the information to law enforcement agencies which will determine if the vehicle is eligible for disposal.

If the car can be disposed of, it is taken to a local auto wrecking yard at GM's expense. Usable material is sent to foundries.

Kyes stressed that there is no intent to interfere with scrap collection methods within the city. But he said moving abandoned wrecks from outlying areas is too costly for most scrap yard operators.

Kyes estimates that about 6.7 million vehicles are disposed of each year, of which about 800,000 are abandoned.

He predicted that the Traverse City tests will show "we have devised a system that not only will remove the accumulation of abandoned vehicles from the countryside, but a system that will be so economically self-sustaining that we can virtually eliminate the possibility of such accumulations occurring again."

Resolution Asks Abandonment Of Proposed Refuge

STEPHENSON—The Menominee County Overall Development and Planning Committee approved a resolution Thursday evening asking for the complete abandonment of the proposed Hayward Lake goose refuge. The meeting was held in the community meeting room of the Bank of Stephenson.

This was the 13th organization in Menominee County to approve such a resolution. Included in the list are five of the 14 townships in the county.

The resolution asks the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife to completely abandon the project that would take 27,000 acres of privately owned land. More than 300 families would be forced to sell their farms and move if the project were to become a reality.

Similar resolutions will come before the Menominee City Council Monday evening, and before the County Board of Commissioners when it meets in July.

Doctorate At Yale Target Of Boy, 16

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michael Grost, at age 10, the nation's youngest collegian, now is in pursuit of a doctorate at 16 and will enroll at Yale University this fall.

Grost jumped from the fifth grade to Michigan State University and has been there ever since, earning a master's degree in mathematics last March.

He says he expects to spend roughly two years on his Ph. D. program in math at Yale. If he earns the degree in that time, he will have attained it at an age when most young people are just beginning their college careers.

Grost says that after his studies at Yale, he may go into teaching or some area of mathematical research.

He says he is changing schools at this point because it is standard academic procedure to do graduate and undergraduate work at different institutions, thereby gaining broader experience.

"I've been very happy at Michigan State," he said. "It lived up to my expectations."

Although Grost compiled nearly a straight-A average in his time at MSU, he said, "I had to work hard. It was never a cinch."

Despite his youth, Grost was not the only high school-age graduate student in the MSU math department this past year. Also there was Edith Stern, a 17-year-old who was graduated from Florida Atlantic University at 16. In addition to her studies, she also taught some college math at MSU.

Purpose of the walk is to raise funds for the construction of a fountain at the rest center in downtown Escanaba, and to pick up and dispose of bottles, cans and other trash the walkers find along the highway between the two cities.

Steve Mitchell, Bay de Noc Community College faculty member and Walkathon coordinator, was elated today with the public response—"It looks like the project will be a reality," he said.

Cost of the fountain has been estimated at $1,000 and the collected pledges total about $1,200.

Lead-Based Paint Big City Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has signed into law a bill permitting landlords to deduct from their real estate taxes three-fourths of the cost of removing or boarding over lead-based paint in their buildings.

The paint is a source of lead poisoning in slum children. It has been estimated that perhaps 6,000 to 8,000 youngsters in New York have significant levels of lead in their bodies as a result of swallowing the paint chips.

Story On Imprisoned AP Reporter Refuted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Miller, president of The Associated Press, says a columnist's claim the AP has been lax in trying to obtain release of a reporter imprisoned by the Egyptian government is irresponsible.

Miller, who also is chairman and chief executive of the Gannett Co. Inc., communications group which operates a number of newspapers and radio and television stations, said the charge by Jack Anderson was "an irresponsible journalistic attack on The Associated Press."

In columns this week Anderson accused the AP and others of "pussyfooting around" in trying to obtain the release of reporters captured by the Viet Cong or imprisoned by foreign governments. He mentioned specifically Ali Mahmoud, an Egyptian reporter for the AP in Cairo.

"The AP has continually pressed the Egyptian government for his release," Miller said of the Mahmoud case while addressing an awards dinner of the Washington chapter of Sigma Delta Chi national professional journalistic society.

"Mahmoud was arrested by Egyptian police on espionage charges for work that had nothing to do with The Associated Press," Miller said. "He was charged with supplying three articles to Munir Abdel Chani, a free-lance photographer. Ghani subsequently was convicted of espionage and sentenced to 15 years."

Miller said the AP obtained a lawyer to defend Mahmoud and the reporter was acquitted. However, Mahmoud has been held by the Egyptian government under regulations passed following the 1967 war with Israel.

"The AP has of course been working in Cairo with the government to obtain his release," Miller added. "Meanwhile, we have been providing financial support for his family, as we should.

"The Anderson column, despite this, goes on to say that the AP hushed up the situation because it did not want to jeopardize its profitable services," Miller said.

"The facts are that the AP moved five stories world-wide on Mahmoud's trial, conviction and detention," Miller said. "This is a peculiar way of hushing things up."

Miller said AP services in Egypt are conducted at a deficit and are maintained there to keep a flow of news going in and out of the Arab world. He said the continuance of AP services has never been raised in connection with the Mahmoud case.

"The AP has had correspondents arrested before and will again, as it fights to get out the news," Miller said. "We have got all of our correspondents out of jail."

LaCombe Given New Position

MILWAUKEE — John LaCombe, formerly of Escanaba, has been promoted to manager of the Kohl's Supermarket in Milwaukee.

Personal responsibility is not "for the birds." It's for the American Eagle!

Seldom in history has the character of a great nation shown such a trend of irresponsibility and indifference as has the American character in the last ten years.

A strong nation is based on a population of strong people who accept moral and personal responsibility. They don't goof off or cop out. When they give their word they keep it. When they undertake a task, they do it to the very best of their ability. They take satisfaction in doing good work.

Economically, the most important result is the excellence and stable prices of the things they produce, and the high quality of service they render. That is what made the United States the strongest nation on earth and—for a long time—made the American Eagle the world's proudest symbol of excellence and reliability.

This loss of dependability and performance—if it keeps up—will make our great country non-great. The American eagle is already a sick bird. He needs a shot of that precious economic vitamin known as Personal Productivity.

Every American who works for a living should ask himself: "Am I part of the problem or part of the answer?"

Every American should keep his eye on the ball—on the production ball. If we don't, we might lose the ball game.

Here's the crystal ball that tells man's economic fortune. Let's spell it out. Man's material welfare (MMW) equals his natural resources (NR) plus the muscular and mental human energy (HE) he applies to them multiplied by the efficiency of his tools (T).

This is PRODUCTION, the source of all economic blessings. You are (HE). For your own sake and everybody else's, keep your eye on the ball.

GM Offering Help To Get Rid Of Junk Cars

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A two-month experiment by General Motors Corp. in the vicinity of the northern Michigan resort of Traverse City may provide a solution to the problem of removing abandoned cars from rural areas.

The vehicles create eyesores on the countryside.

For the next eight weeks, GM, in cooperation with its five dealerships in the area, will remove free of charge any automobiles abandoned within 20 miles of Traverse City.

Roger M. Kyes, executive vice president of GM, said the test is to learn whether the company's program for removing abandoned autos is economically feasible.

Company officials estimate there may be 2,000 to 3,000 junked cars within the test area.

The plan calls for anyone owning or spotting an abandoned car to call a company dealer with details.

The dealer takes the information to law enforcement agencies which will determine if the vehicle is eligible for disposal.

If the car can be disposed of, it is taken to a local auto wrecking yard at GM's expense. Usable material is sent to foundries.

Kyes stressed that there is no intent to interfere with scrap collection methods within the city. But he said moving abandoned wrecks from outlying areas is too costly for most scrap yard operators.

Kyes estimates that about 6.7 million vehicles are disposed of each year, of which about 800,000 are abandoned.

He predicted that the Traverse City tests will show "we have devised a system that not only will remove the accumulation of abandoned vehicles from the countryside, but a system that will be so economically self-sustaining that we can virtually eliminate the possibility of such accumulations occurring again."

Resolution Asks Abandonment Of Proposed Refuge

STEPHENSON—The Menominee County Overall Development and Planning Committee approved a resolution Thursday evening asking for the complete abandonment of the proposed Hayward Lake goose refuge. The meeting was held in the community meeting room of the Bank of Stephenson.

The resolution asks the Michigan Department of Natural Resources and the U. S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife to completely abandon the project that would take 27,000 acres of privately owned land. More than 300 families would be forced to sell their farms and move if the project were to become a reality.

Similar resolutions will come before the Menominee City Council Monday evening, and before the County Board of Commissioners when it meets in July.

Doctorate At Yale Target Of Boy, 16

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michael Grost, at age 10, the nation's youngest collegian, now is in pursuit of a doctorate at 16 and will enroll at Yale University this fall.

Grost jumped from the fifth grade to Michigan State University and has been there ever since, earning a master's degree in mathematics last March.

He says he expects to spend roughly two years on his Ph. D. program in math at Yale. If he earns the degree in that time, he will have attained it at an age when most young people are just beginning their college careers.

Grost says that after his studies at Yale, he may go into teaching or some area of mathematical research.

He says he is changing schools at this point because it is standard academic procedure to do graduate and undergraduate work at different institutions, thereby gaining broader experience.

"I've been very happy at Michigan State," he said. "It lived up to my expectations."

Although Grost compiled nearly a straight-A average in his time at MSU, he said, "I had to work hard. It was never a cinch."

Despite his youth, Grost was not the only high school-age graduate student in the MSU math department this past year. Also there was Edith Stern, a 17-year-old who was graduated from Florida Atlantic University at 16. In addition to her studies, she also taught some college math at MSU.

Steve Mitchell, Bay de Noc Community College faculty member and Walkathon coordinator, was elated today with the public response—"It looks like the project will be a reality," he said.

Cost of the fountain has been estimated at $1,000 and the collected pledges total about $1,200.

Lead-Based Paint Big City Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has signed into law a bill permitting landlords to deduct from their real estate taxes three-fourths of the cost of removing or boarding over lead-based paint in their buildings.

The paint is a source of lead poisoning in slum children. It has been estimated that perhaps 6,000 to 8,000 youngsters in New York have significant levels of lead in their bodies as a result of swallowing the paint chips.

Story On Imprisoned AP Reporter Refuted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Miller, president of The Associated Press, says a columnist's claim the AP has been lax in trying to obtain release of a reporter imprisoned by the Egyptian government is irresponsible.

Miller, who also is chairman and chief executive of the Gannett Co. Inc., communications group which operates a number of newspapers and radio and television stations, said the charge by Jack Anderson was "an irresponsible journalistic attack on The Associated Press."

In columns this week Anderson accused the AP and others of "pussyfooting around" in trying to obtain the release of reporters captured by the Viet Cong or imprisoned by foreign governments. He mentioned specifically Ali Mahmoud, an Egyptian reporter for the AP in Cairo.

"The AP has continually pressed the Egyptian government for his release," Miller said of the Mahmoud case while addressing an awards dinner of the Washington chapter of Sigma Delta Chi national professional journalistic society.

"Mahmoud was arrested by Egyptian police on espionage charges for work that had nothing to do with The Associated Press," Miller said. "He was charged with supplying three articles to Munir Abdel Chani, a free-lance photographer. Ghani subsequently was convicted of espionage and sentenced to 15 years."

Miller said the AP obtained a lawyer to defend Mahmoud and the reporter was acquitted. However, Mahmoud has been held by the Egyptian government under regulations passed following the 1967 war with Israel.

"The AP has of course been working in Cairo with the government to obtain his release," Miller added. "Meanwhile, we have been providing financial support for his family, as we should.

"The Anderson column, despite this, goes on to say that the AP hushed up the situation because it did not want to jeopardize its profitable services," Miller said.

"The facts are that the AP moved five stories world-wide on Mahmoud's trial, conviction and detention," Miller said. "This is a peculiar way of hushing things up."

Miller said AP services in Egypt are conducted at a deficit and are maintained there to keep a flow of news going in and out of the Arab world. He said the continuance of AP services has never been raised in connection with the Mahmoud case.

"The AP has had correspondents arrested before and will again, as it fights to get out the news," Miller said. "We have got all of our correspondents out of jail."

LOOKING FOR GOD

Some say you find God just as well in a garden, in the woods, or on a golf course as in a church — that God is everywhere. But be honest about it.

Are you not more apt to think of weeds, or mosquitoes, or a poor shot than you are of God? And after all, you have made this outing to seek pleasure.

But when you go to church, it is with the specific intention of worshipping. Here you engage in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. Here you mingle with people who are seeking God and have come to feel His presence. In the quiet beauty of a church you find few outside distractions, and you know that this place is dedicated to the service of God.

For peace and happiness which comes from really feeling God's presence, worship in the house of the Lord this Sunday — make it a regular practice.

LOOKING FOR GOD

Some say you find God just as well in a garden, in the woods, or on a golf course as in a church — that God is everywhere. But be honest about it.

Are you not more apt to think of weeds, or mosquitoes, or a poor shot than you are of God? And after all, you have made this outing to seek pleasure.

But when you go to church, it is with the specific intention of worshipping. Here you engage in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. Here you mingle with people who are seeking God and have come to feel His presence. In the quiet beauty of a church you find few outside distractions, and you know that this place is dedicated to the service of God.

For peace and happiness which comes from really feeling God's presence, worship in the house of the Lord this Sunday — make it a regular practice.

Guard In Action

Pictures And Story By Lou Freeman

Company C, 107th Engineer Battalion, Michigan Army National Guard, Gladstone, anticipates a permanent armory home in Gladstone next year.

The National Guard Unit now occupies property owned by Delta County (the old Delta Nursing Home), pending completion in August, 1971, of a new armory in Gladstone.

The Gladstone unit is composed of enlistee's mainly from the Delta County area, but is open to the entire area. Minimum age for enlistment is 18 and maximum is 35. Age may exceed 35 if the enlistee has had previous service.

The National Guard is a reserve component of the Army and members are subject to immediate call at a given notice. During an interview with Sgt. Vernon Rousseau the question of disipline problems was asked and Rousseau said, "our boys know that if they create any problems they will find themselves serving two years of active duty, so consequently we have no discipline problems."

There are presently 145 enlisted men in Company C, under the supervision of five authorized officers designated for this area. Members meet one weekend each month and spend eight hours on each of the two days performing training exercises.

Training exercises include engineering construction, classes on tactics, riot control, weapon firing and many others.

Each summer, members are required to spend a period of two weeks at a designated camp for additional training. Company C, of Gladstone is assigned to Camp Grayling.

In addition to handgun and rifle training received locally, members, while at camp, will receive training in the operation of the grenade launcher, rocket launcher, and machine gun.

During weekend drills, meals are prepared at the armory by members permanently assigned to that detail according to a master menu issued six months in advance.

K.P. duty (kitchen police) is performed by all enlisted men according to a duty roster prepared in advance.

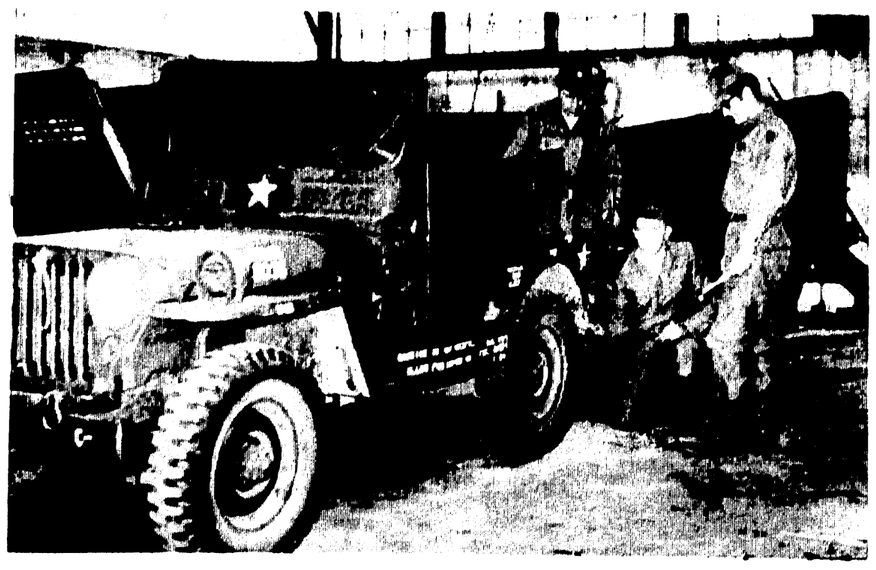

All military clothing and equipment is furnished by the National Guard and in the event of loss or theft, members are required to replace them at their own expense. Care and cleaning of uniforms is the responsibility of each member.

Company C soldiers serve proudly in the National Guard and stand ready for our country's defense.

Brewers End Slump; Snyder's 'Slam' Helps

By The Associated Press

The road company of the Milwaukee Brewers, with Russ Snyder in the leading role, finally put on a hit Friday night after 17 consecutife flops.

The veteran outfielder walloped a grand slam homer in the eighth inning after Cleveland pitcher Rich Hand issued three walks with two outs, powering the Brewers to a 4-1 victory, their first triumph away from home in 18 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox, another team that subscribes to the theory that home is where the heart and the wins are, dropped a 5-2 decision to the Twins in Minnesota; California beat Detroit 5-2, Oakland tripped Baltimore 4-2 in 11 innings, the New York Yankees blanked Kansas City 5-0 and the Chicago White Sox zeroed Washington 6-0 on Tommy John's Chicago White Sox zeroed Washington 6-0 on Tommy John's two-hitter.

Scoreless Dule

Milwaukee and Cleveland were locked in a scoreless struggle until Hand walked Gus Gil, pitcher Marty Pattin and Tommy Harper in the eighth and Snyder belted his third home run of the season. The Indians scored off Pattin in their half on a walk, wild pitch and Eddie Leon's singles.

The Brewers, a respectable 12-15 at home, had lost 24 of 29 road games, including all 10 in May, and hadn't won away from home since a 5-3 victory in Boston April 26.

"There was no jinx involved, or anything like that," said manager Dave Bristol. "It was real simple—we just weren't playing good. When you play bad you lose no matter where you're playing. When you play good you win no matter where you're playing."

The Red Sox, 20-8 in the friendly confines of Fenway Park, lost for the 19th time in 25 road contests as Ron Perranoski came on in the seventh to strike ou Mike Andrews with two on and two out. The lefty reliever picked up his 14th save.

Winner Jim Perry singled home the first run of the game in the second inning. Brant Alyea and Leo Cardenas doubled runs across in the fifth and the Twins wrapped it up on in the eighth on run-scoring hits by George Mitterwald and Rod Carew. Tom Satriano homered for the Sox.

Yanks On Prowl

The East Division race, which once looked like a runaway for Baltimore, tightened up some more as the Orioles lost and the Yankees won to pull within four games of the Birds.

The A's and Orioles went to the 11th inning tied 2-2 on solo homers by Campy Campaneris and Rick Monday in the first for Oakland and Clay Dalrymple and Don Buford in the sixth for Baltimore.

But in the 11th, Dick Green was hit by a pitch from Eddie Watt, Mudcat Grant sacrificed and Campaneris hit a tie-breaking double and scored himself on Reggie Jackson's double.

Reliever Grant blanked the Orioles over the last four innings and piched out of three scoring threats while lowering his earned run average to a sparkling 0.83 in 26 appearances.

Royals Shutout

Fritz Peterson hurled a five-hitter for the Yanks in becoming the first pitcher to blank the Royals this season. Two errors helped New York to two runs in the third off Dave Morehead, Danny Cater singled a run home in the fifth and Jerry Kenney tripled in the seventh, scoring on Bobby Murcer's single, and homered in the ninth.

Syd O'Brien slammed a solo homer and Ken Berry a three-run shot in support of John's pitching as the White Sox baffled the Senators. The only hits off the lefty were singles by Wayne Comer in the fifth and Ed Brinkman in the ninth.

Fregosi Turns 'Actor'; Angels Halt Tigers 5-2

DETROIT (AP) — Maybe because he lives in Southern California Jim Fregosi thinks he's really "Joe Hollywood."

He wasn't wearing dark sunglasses Friday night and smoking a cigarette in a six-inch holder, but he fit the celebrity role just the same.

"I'm waiting for my Hollywood contract to come along, hoked the California Angels after shortstop after stroking a pair of home runs in a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Likes T.V. Cameras

The game was televised in Anaheim and Fregosi's homers were his fifth and sixth in front of the TV cameras out of nine homers this year.

"The word is out," smiled the hamdsome veteran of nine seasons with the Angels. "Don't face the Angels when we're on TV."

With the win California remains in second place in the American League West, 2½ games behind Minnesota. Detroit failed to take advantage of Baltimore's 4-2 loss to Oakland and is still in third place in the East nine games behind the Orioles.

Detroit and California were to tangle again tonight with Les Cain, 5-2, searching for his fifth straight victory for the Tigers. Tom Murphy, 6-5, was the probable starting pitcher for the Angels.

Hiller's Start

Without the gopher balls John Hiller, 3-3, making his first start of the year, may have been able to go all the way for Detroit. He gave up single runs in the first, fourth, fifth and sixth innings, then the Angels tagged reliever Dennis Saunders for a run in the seventh.

Fregois belted a homer in the first, then again in the fifth while Billy Cowan led off the fourth with a round tripper for California.

"I only hit about 12 home runs a year," Fregosi said with a grin. "If I hit 11 in the first half I'll only hit one the second."

Andy Messersmith scattered seven hits in picking up his sixth win in 11 decisions.

Angel manager Lefy Phillips praised and panned his pitcher in the same sentence: "He pitched a good steady game but I've yet to see him at his best."

Freehan Homers

The Tigers scored a run in the first on consecutive singles by Mickey Stanley, Jim Northrup and Willie Horton, but they only managed four scattered hits the rest of the way. One was Bill Freehan's 11th homer which came to lead off the seventh.

California picked up its fourth run in the sixth on a double by Cowan and a bad hop single by Tommie Reynolds that appeared to hit a stone and bounce over second baseman Dick McAuliffe's head.

A pair of singles and two fielders' choices pushed across the final Angel run in the seventh.

Bucs' Ellis Hurls 1st '70 No-Hitter

By The Associated Press

Dock Ellis knew he had something going but the strong-armed Pitsburgh right-hander needed a slight adjustment and a diving teammate in hurling the first no-hitter of the 1970 season.

Ellis, a 25-year-old who claims, "You're supposed to mature at 21. I'm four years late," overcame his own wildness Friday night in stopping the San Diego Padres without a hit in the Pirates 2-0 victory in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Team Help

The 6-foot-3, 196-pounder, was backed by a pair of homers by Willie Stargell and an acrobatic catch by second baseman Bill Mazeroski in achieving his masterpiece.

The Padres took the nightcap 5-2 while in other National League action, Cincinnati topped Philadelphia 3-1, New York crushed Atlanta 8-1, St. Louis whipped San Francisco 4-1, Chicago edged Los Angeles 2-1 and Montreal nipped Houston 7-6.

No. 23 For Perez

Tony Perez, the majors, home run and runs batted in leader, ripped his 23rd homer, driving in his 65th and 66th RBI to back the eight-hit, 11 strikeout pitching of the Reds' rookie right-hander Wayne Simpson, who won his ninth game against one loss.

Tommie Agee slamed a pair of solo homers and two singles and scored four runs in leading the Mets over Atlanta.

Bob Gibson won his seventh game, limiting the Giants to five hits and crashing a homer and double. The Cards' ace right-hander struck out eight and walked three.

Cubs Win

Don Kessinger, a late arrival due to a military commitment, stroked a seventh-inning run-scoring double, snapping a 1-1 tie and scoring Billy Williams with the winner. Lefty Ken Holtzman, 7-3, scattered five hits and Jim Hickman, running his hitting streak to 15 games, powered his 15th homer of the season for the Cubs.

John Bateman drilled a three-run homer in Montreal's four-run first inning as the Expos held off the Astros.

Le Mans Sports Car Race Begins

LE MANS, France (AP) — German Porsches and Italian Ferraris set out today to battle for supremacy in the world's longest and toughest sport cars race—the 38th running of the 24 hours of Le Mans.

Porsche, which has never won here, start slightly favored over the Ferrari team, which has registered nine victories between 1954 and 1965.

The race is due to be the fastest ever, with the winning car expected to cover more than 3,106 miles in the 24 hours.

Porsche will line up seven or eight of the 4.5 and 5-liter 917 cars which have allready won the world's sport car championship. Ferrari has entered 11 of its 512 S models and despite having only one triumph in the series this year—that victory in the longest of the race, the 24 hours of Sebring.

A secondary struggle will also catch the attention of the 300,000 spectators around the 8.3 miles circuit. France's matra-Simcas will be out to take the honors in the 3-liter class from Italy's Alfa-Romeos.

The pre-race trials brought the fastest ever speeds there, with the cars topping 140 miles per hour as the Ferraris and Porsches battled for pole position.

About 55 cars are expected to start. Almost half of them will be cars that have emerged from his design board. As well as the racing 917 and 908 models, many of the 911 road-type Porsches are seeking class wins in the race.

Ford, dominate in recent years, is absent. But an innovation this year is the first appearance at Le Mans of a car powered by a Wankel rotary engine, a British Chevron with an engine built by Mazda of Japan under license.

Two American Chevrolet-Corvettes are also out for honors in the grand-touring class.

Although Porsche has formally won the world title, it will need a victory here to prove they are in fact the world's ports car champions.

Manager Ted Williams of the Washington Senators was born in San Diego in 1918.

Iverson Snares Norway Honors

Bob Iverson of Hyde and Ron Paquette of Kingsford captured the feature races Friday night in Norway, as Bill Goeden, the No. one modified driver in the Milwaukee area suffered his first defeat of the season on the Norway race track and Joe Haferkorn of Norway lost the sportsmens feature when he rolled his car over and substained minor injuries.

Iverson raced to an early lead and held off the challenge of Goeden in the modified feature with Wally Jors of Fond du Lac, Wis. third and Ken Iverson and Jerry Richer in a close battle for fourth.

In the modified semi-feature Jim Peterson of Kingsford road to the victory in a close race.

There were only twe modified heats and the winners were Bob Iverson in the first and Herb Iverson in the second with Goeden taking the time trials again.

The sportsman feature was marked by quite a few accidents. Haferkorn lost control of his car on the No. 3 corner on the 12th lap and rolled over, Paquette, who was a close second, raced to the feature victory. Haferkorn has been reported to have broken one of his fingers and will probably be out of action tonight at the Escanaba Speedway.

It's Fun To Play Baseball If You're A Baltimore Oriole

By The Associated Press

Orioles Are Hiding Psychological Scars. That's what the headline said. If the Baltimore Orioles, who got their comeuppance from those ragamuffins known as the New York Mets, are hiding any scars from last October's World Series defeat they are hiding them well.

"That was last year," said Frank Robinson. "It's over and done with."

Robinson is the man who keeps the Baltimore Orioles loose for Earl Weaver, the dandy little manager who committed the unforgiveable by getting himself bounced from the fourth World Series game by a National League umpire for constantly bickering on balls and strikes.

Almost as soon as spring training opened the Orioles showed they didn't give a hoot. Before Dave McNally signed his 1970 contract there was this baseball, with its yarn hanging out. The yarn and beat up ball was tacked to McNally's locker, the ball dangling, and beside it was a sign which said:

"Compliments of Al Weis."

Weis is the darling little Met sug shortstop-second baseman who played two years for the Mets before he hit a home run in Shea Stadium. The windblown drive came against McNally, a 20-game winner, and tied the score of the final game at 3-all, setting the stage for Ron Swoboda's series winning double in the eighth.

McNally allowed American Leaguers 21 homers last year but the one Weis hit hurt the most. His Oriole teammates are not going to let him forget it. It cost each of them about $4,000.

"It was Weiss who beat me with a single in the second game, 2-1, in the ninth," says McNally. "How can I forget that rascal."

"There is no danger of complacency on this club," said Frank Robinson, the "Here Come De Judge" of Baltimore's kangaroo court.

One day Weaver said to Brooks Robinson, his All-Star third baseman and Baltimore's All-Time third baseman:

"It's nice to know you feel fine today. I guess you won't mind playing nine innings and then getting a haircut."

F. Robby could have fined B. Robby at least $1 for being "called down" by the manager but F. Robby was laughing so hard, even with a scratchy throat, that he forgot he was the judge.

These are the old Orioles, ready to tear the American League apart once again.

Tigers Sign Bonus Baby

DETROIT (AP)— The Detroit Tigers have signed their No. 1 choice in last week's free agent draft, giving 18-year-old catcher Terry Mappin the largest bonus contract the club has awarded since the draft was installed in 1065.

Mapping, who was just graduated from high school in Louisville, Ky., was to work out at Tiger Stadium today and Sunday before reporting to Lakeland of the Florida State League Monday.

Ed Katalinas, Tigers' direotor f player procurement, kept with team policy by not disclosing the amount of the bonus.

He described Mappin as, "one of the most sought after young catchers in the country. Our scouting reports show that he has one of the best schoolboy bats with good power and we are confident he will develop rapidly."

He said Detroit scouts have been looking for some time for a lefthand catcher who hits with power. Mappin batted from .380 to .400 during his high school career, hitting .400 this year with 11 home runs in 22 games.

In the six years since the first free agent draft the Tigers have signed five of their top picks.

"In that period we have paid out a lot of bonus money," Katalinas said, "but this tops all the others."

Hermansville LL Nipped By Norway

The Hermansville Little Leaguers lost a close one at Norway Wednesday evening when the Norway VFW outlasted them 3-2.

The big factor in the game was errors, which proved costly again for Hermansville. Manager Reno Fochesato used two hurlers Ken Raiche and Tim Fabry with Fabry getting charged with the loss. Norway scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to win the game, when Fabry walked 5 men, forcing in the winning run.

Steve Maule and Fabry had the only Hermansville hits, with Bob Devine the only Norway hit.

Devine got credit for Norway's win, relieving Mike Kimichick the starting Norway hurler.

Brewers End Slump; Snyder's 'Slam' Helps

By The Associated Press

The road company of the Milwaukee Brewers, with Russ Snyder in the leading role, finally put on a hit Friday night after 17 consecutife flops.

The veteran outfielder walloped a grand slam homer in the eighth inning after Cleveland pitcher Rich Hand issued three walks with two outs, powering the Brewers to a 4-1 victory, their first triumph away from home in 18 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox, another team that subscribes to the theory that home is where the heart and the wins are, dropped a 5-2 decision to the Twins in Minnesota; California beat Detroit 5-2, Oakland tripped Baltimore 4-2 in 11 innings, the New York Yankees blanked Kansas City 5-0 and the Chicago White Sox zeroed Washington 6-0 on Tommy John's Chicago White Sox zeroed Washington 6-0 on Tommy John's two-hitter.

Scoreless Dule

Milwaukee and Cleveland were locked in a scoreless struggle until Hand walked Gus Gil, pitcher Marty Pattin and Tommy Harper in the eighth and Snyder belted his third home run of the season. The Indians scored off Pattin in their half on a walk, wild pitch and Eddie Leon's singles.

The Brewers, a respectable 12-15 at home, had lost 24 of 29 road games, including all 10 in May, and hadn't won away from home since a 5-3 victory in Boston April 26.

"There was no jinx involved, or anything like that," said manager Dave Bristol. "It was real simple—we just weren't playing good. When you play bad you lose no matter where you're playing. When you play good you win no matter where you're playing."

The Red Sox, 20-8 in the friendly confines of Fenway Park, lost for the 19th time in 25 road contests as Ron Perranoski came on in the seventh to strike ou Mike Andrews with two on and two out. The lefty reliever picked up his 14th save.

Winner Jim Perry singled home the first run of the game in the second inning. Brant Alyea and Leo Cardenas doubled runs across in the fifth and the Twins wrapped it up on in the eighth on run-scoring hits by George Mitterwald and Rod Carew. Tom Satriano homered for the Sox.

Yanks On Prowl

The East Division race, which once looked like a runaway for Baltimore, tightened up some more as the Orioles lost and the Yankees won to pull within four games of the Birds.

The A's and Orioles went to the 11th inning tied 2-2 on solo homers by Campy Campaneris and Rick Monday in the first for Oakland and Clay Dalrymple and Don Buford in the sixth for Baltimore.

But in the 11th, Dick Green was hit by a pitch from Eddie Watt, Mudcat Grant sacrificed and Campaneris hit a tie-breaking double and scored himself on Reggie Jackson's double.

Reliever Grant blanked the Orioles over the last four innings and piched out of three scoring threats while lowering his earned run average to a sparkling 0.83 in 26 appearances.

Royals Shutout

Fritz Peterson hurled a five-hitter for the Yanks in becoming the first pitcher to blank the Royals this season. Two errors helped New York to two runs in the third off Dave Morehead, Danny Cater singled a run home in the fifth and Jerry Kenney tripled in the seventh, scoring on Bobby Murcer's single, and homered in the ninth.

Syd O'Brien slammed a solo homer and Ken Berry a three-run shot in support of John's pitching as the White Sox baffled the Senators. The only hits off the lefty were singles by Wayne Comer in the fifth and Ed Brinkman in the ninth.

Fregosi Turns 'Actor'; Angels Halt Tigers 5-2

DETROIT (AP) — Maybe because he lives in Southern California Jim Fregosi thinks he's really "Joe Hollywood."

He wasn't wearing dark sunglasses Friday night and smoking a cigarette in a six-inch holder, but he fit the celebrity role just the same.

"I'm waiting for my Hollywood contract to come along, hoked the California Angels after shortstop after stroking a pair of home runs in a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Likes T.V. Cameras

The game was televised in Anaheim and Fregosi's homers were his fifth and sixth in front of the TV cameras out of nine homers this year.

"The word is out," smiled the hamdsome veteran of nine seasons with the Angels. "Don't face the Angels when we're on TV."

With the win California remains in second place in the American League West, 2½ games behind Minnesota. Detroit failed to take advantage of Baltimore's 4-2 loss to Oakland and is still in third place in the East nine games behind the Orioles.

Detroit and California were to tangle again tonight with Les Cain, 5-2, searching for his fifth straight victory for the Tigers. Tom Murphy, 6-5, was the probable starting pitcher for the Angels.

Hiller's Start

Without the gopher balls John Hiller, 3-3, making his first start of the year, may have been able to go all the way for Detroit. He gave up single runs in the first, fourth, fifth and sixth innings, then the Angels tagged reliever Dennis Saunders for a run in the seventh.

Fregois belted a homer in the first, then again in the fifth while Billy Cowan led off the fourth with a round tripper for California.

"I only hit about 12 home runs a year," Fregosi said with a grin. "If I hit 11 in the first half I'll only hit one the second."

Andy Messersmith scattered seven hits in picking up his sixth win in 11 decisions.

Angel manager Lefy Phillips praised and panned his pitcher in the same sentence: "He pitched a good steady game but I've yet to see him at his best."

Freehan Homers

The Tigers scored a run in the first on consecutive singles by Mickey Stanley, Jim Northrup and Willie Horton, but they only managed four scattered hits the rest of the way. One was Bill Freehan's 11th homer which came to lead off the seventh.

California picked up its fourth run in the sixth on a double by Cowan and a bad hop single by Tommie Reynolds that appeared to hit a stone and bounce over second baseman Dick McAuliffe's head.

A pair of singles and two fielders' choices pushed across the final Angel run in the seventh.

Hermansville LL Nipped By Norway

The Hermansville Little Leaguers lost a close one at Norway Wednesday evening when the Norway VFW outlasted them 3-2.

The big factor in the game was errors, which proved costly again for Hermansville. Manager Reno Fochesato used two hurlers Ken Raiche and Tim Fabry with Fabry getting charged with the loss. Norway scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to win the game, when Fabry walked 5 men, forcing in the winning run.

Steve Maule and Fabry had the only Hermansville hits, with Bob Devine the only Norway hit.

Devine got credit for Norway's win, relieving Mike Kimichick the starting Norway hurler.

Bucs' Ellis Hurls 1st '70 No-Hitter

By The Associated Press

Dock Ellis knew he had something going but the strong-armed Pitsburgh right-hander needed a slight adjustment and a diving teammate in hurling the first no-hitter of the 1970 season.

Ellis, a 25-year-old who claims, "You're supposed to mature at 21. I'm four years late," overcame his own wildness Friday night in stopping the San Diego Padres without a hit in the Pirates 2-0 victory in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Team Help

The 6-foot-3, 196-pounder, was backed by a pair of homers by Willie Stargell and an acrobatic catch by second baseman Bill Mazeroski in achieving his masterpiece.

The Padres took the nightcap 5-2 while in other National League action, Cincinnati topped Philadelphia 3-1, New York crushed Atlanta 8-1, St. Louis whipped San Francisco 4-1, Chicago edged Los Angeles 2-1 and Montreal nipped Houston 7-6.

No. 23 For Perez

Tony Perez, the majors, home run and runs batted in leader, ripped his 23rd homer, driving in his 65th and 66th RBI to back the eight-hit, 11 strikeout pitching of the Reds' rookie right-hander Wayne Simpson, who won his ninth game against one loss.

Tommie Agee slamed a pair of solo homers and two singles and scored four runs in leading the Mets over Atlanta.

Bob Gibson won his seventh game, limiting the Giants to five hits and crashing a homer and double. The Cards' ace right-hander struck out eight and walked three.

Cubs Win

Don Kessinger, a late arrival due to a military commitment, stroked a seventh-inning run-scoring double, snapping a 1-1 tie and scoring Billy Williams with the winner. Lefty Ken Holtzman, 7-3, scattered five hits and Jim Hickman, running his hitting streak to 15 games, powered his 15th homer of the season for the Cubs.

John Bateman drilled a three-run homer in Montreal's four-run first inning as the Expos held off the Astros.

Le Mans Sports Car Race Begins

LE MANS, France (AP) — German Porsches and Italian Ferraris set out today to battle for supremacy in the world's longest and toughest sport cars race—the 38th running of the 24 hours of Le Mans.

Porsche, which has never won here, start slightly favored over the Ferrari team, which has registered nine victories between 1954 and 1965.

The race is due to be the fastest ever, with the winning car expected to cover more than 3,106 miles in the 24 hours.

Porsche will line up seven or eight of the 4.5 and 5-liter 917 cars which have already won the world's sport car championship. Ferrari has entered 11 of its 512 S models and despite having only one triumph in the series this year—that victory in the longest of the race, the 24 hours of Sebring.

A secondary struggle will also catch the attention of the 300,000 spectators around the 8.3 miles circuit. France's matra-Simcas will be out to take the honors in the 3-liter class from Italy's Alfa-Romeos.

The pre-race trials brought the fastest ever speeds here, with the cars topping 140 miles per hour as the Ferraris and Porsches battled for pole position.

About 55 cars are expected to start. Almost half of them will be cars that have emerged from his design board. As well as the racing 917 and 908 models, many of the 911 road-type Porsches are seeking class wins in the race.

Ford, dominate in recent years, is absent. But an innovation this year is the first appearance at Le Mans of a car powered by a Wankel rotary engine, a British Chevron with an engine built by Mazda of Japan under license.

Two American Chevrolet-Corvettes are also out for honors in the grand-touring class.

Although Porsche has formally won the world title, it will need a victory here to prove they are in fact the world's ports car champions.

Manager Ted Williams of the Washington Senators was born in San Diego in 1918.

Iverson Snares Norway Honors

Bob Iverson of Hyde and Ron Paquette of Kingsford captured the feature races Friday night in Norway, as Bill Goeden, the No. one modified driver in the Milwaukee area suffered his first defeat of the season on the Norway race track and Joe Haferkorn of Norway lost the sportsmens feature when he rolled his car over and substained minor injuries.

Iverson raced to an early lead and held off the challenge of Goeden in the modified feature with Wally Jors of Fond du Lac, Wis. third and Ken Iverson and Jerry Richer in a close battle for fourth.

In the modified semi-feature Jim Peterson of Kingsford road to the victory in a close race.

There were only two modified heats and the winners were Bob Iverson in the first and Herb Iverson in the second with Goeden taking the time trials again.

The sportsman feature was marked by quite a few accidents. Haferkorn lost control of his car on the No. 3 corner on the 12th lap and rolled over, Paquette, who was a close second, raced to the feature victory. Haferkorn has been reported to have broken one of his fingers and will probably be out of action tonight at the Escanaba Speedway.

It's Fun To Play Baseball If You're A Baltimore Oriole

By The Associated Press

Orioles Are Hiding Psychological Scars. That's what the headline said. If the Baltimore Orioles, who got their comeuppance from those ragamuffins known as the New York Mets, are hiding any scars from last October's World Series defeat they are hiding them well.

"That was last year," said Frank Robinson. "It's over and done with."

Robinson is the man who keeps the Baltimore Orioles loose for Earl Weaver, the dandy little manager who committed the unforgiveable by getting himself bounced from the fourth World Series game by a National League umpire for constantly bickering on balls and strikes.

Almost as soon as spring training opened the Orioles showed they didn't give a hoot. Before Dave McNally signed his 1970 contract there was this baseball, with its yarn hanging out. The yarn and beat up ball was tacked to McNally's locker, the ball dangling, and beside it was a sign which said:

"Compliments of Al Weis."

Weis is the darling little Met sug shortstop-second baseman who played two years for the Mets before he hit a home run in Shea Stadium. The windblown drive came against McNally, a 20-game winner, and tied the score of the final game at 3-all, setting the stage for Ron Swoboda's series winning double in the eighth.

McNally allowed American Leaguers 21 homers last year but the one Weis hit hurt the most. His Oriole teammates are not going to let him forget it. It cost each of them about $4,000.

"It was Weiss who beat me with a single in the second game, 2-1, in the ninth," says McNally. "How can I forget that rascal."

"There is no danger of complacency on this club," said Frank Robinson, the "Here Come De Judge" of Baltimore's kangaroo court.

One day Weaver said to Brooks Robinson, his All-Star third baseman and Baltimore's All-Time third baseman:

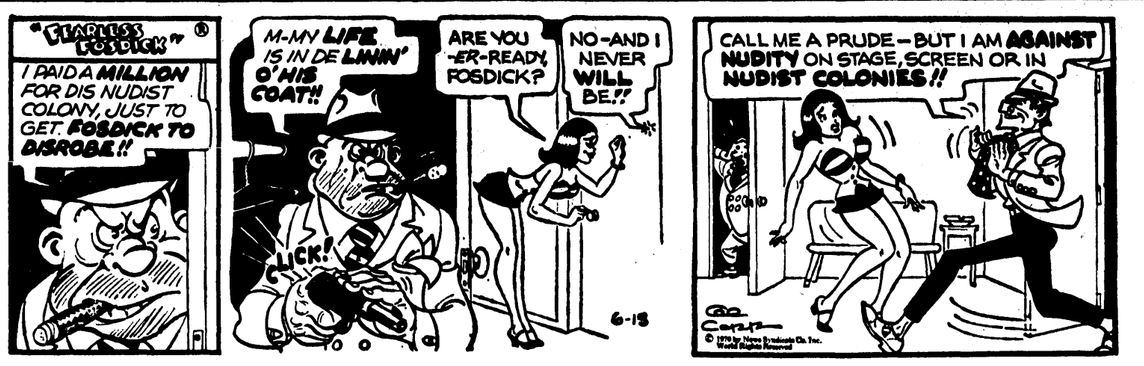

"It's nice to know you feel fine today. I guess you won't mind playing nine innings and then getting a haircut."

F. Robby could have fined B. Robby at least $1 for being "called down" by the manager but F. Robby was laughing so hard, even with a scratchy throat, that he forgot he was the judge.

These are the old Orioles, ready to tear the American League apart once again.

Snowmobilers May Face Stiffer Laws

LANSING (AP)—When Michigan snowmobilers mount up to roar off through next November's snowfall, they may face new, stiffer laws treating their vehicles more and more like automobiles.

The same prospect would be in store the following spring for owners of increasingly popular, balloon-tired "all - terrain vehicles" that navigate swamps, marshes and other backcountry areas closed to more conventional vehicles.

The new restrictions are detailed in a bill passed 81-14 Friday by the House and sent to the Senate. The bill broadens Michigan's two-year-old snowmobile regulation act to include the ATV's.

If passed by the Senate, the proposed law would have these ramifications starting Nov. 1:

—Travel on streets and highways would be prohibited except on adjacent shoulders and rights-of-way or under emergency conditions specified by local police agencies.

—Owners of ATVs, as well as an estimated 130,000 snowmobiles, would have to buy state-issued license plates if driving off their own property.

—Youngsters under the age of 14 would be forbidden to operate the vehicles without an adult's immediate supervision or when on the property of a parent or guardian.

—Hunting or tracking wildfowl or animals would be forbidden.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Loren Anderson, R - Pontiac, contains other regulations aimed at curbing nuisances and citizen complaints arising from the booming new northland industry.

Half of the revenues generated from licensing provisions of the bill would go to the State Natural Resources Department for development of new backland trails.

The bill also would require manufacturers to stamp identification numbers on all vehicles sold after Dec. 1. The number would replace state registration numbers now required.

Local communities and townships could adopt other regulations but could not charge a fee for a license or require possession of a motor vehicle driving license.

Students Will Find Vacation Jobs Lacking

DETROIT (AP) — It will be hard finding a job in Michigan this summer.

The outlook for job-seeking students, or anyone out of work, "is not encouraging," says William R. Ford, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

He said the main reason is that May's unemployment rate was the highest for that month since 1962 and virtually unchanged from April. Ford said 1,000 more people were unemployed in May than April.

"The outlook for the summer is not encouraging," Ford said, "since many of those laid off have the least skills and the lowest seniority. We expect job opportunities to remain scarce until fall...when the auto companies begin full production on new models and the national economy begins its expected pickup."

He said that a May estimate represents an increase of 55,000 unemployed over May last year. The May advance figure for the entire state's unemployment was 222,000, oe 6.2 per cent of the labor force.

Michigan's percentage for May was the highest for that month since 1962, when 6.8 per cent of the labor force was jobless, and was consideraby above the national average of 5 per cent for the same month.

Ford said May unemployment in the Detroit area during May was 101,000, or 5.8 per cent of the labor force. This was an increase of 5,000 unemployed over April's 96,000 or 5.6 per cent.

Reformed Church Rejects Merger Plan At Session

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—Two attempts to secure greater involvement by the Reformed Church in America in the ecumenical movement were rejected by the denomination's synod Friday.

The 280 delegates turned down a request seeking to have the Reformed Church take steps toward possible union with the United Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Such a merger was approved by the southern Presbyterian group last year but the Reformed Church vetoed any such union. The proposal touched off a heated battle last year within the Reformed denomination and even an unsuccessful motion to dissolve the church.

The second proposal vetoed Friday called upon the reformed Church to become a full participant in the Council on Church Union.

While rejecting that suggestion, the synod delegates did vote to send a copy of the council's plan of union to each Reformed Church.

Attorney Trying For Political Fund Cost Exemption

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Attorney William H. Maness is trying to convince the government that the $7,171 he spent in two unsuccessful political campaigns was simply a lawyer's way of advertising and the costs should be deductible.

The Internal Revenue Service contends Maness owes $2,246 tax on the money he spent in 1966 and 1967 campaigns for the state Senate.

Maness declared, "Much is said in every law school about the duty of lawyers to seek public office, not only for the fulfillment of the high calling of a lawyer but also as a practical means of advertising."

The former circuit judge said his income jumped from $48,536 in 1966 to $63,820 in 1968, and that this was concrete evidence his advertising paid off.

Off-Shore Drilling Moratorium Asked

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House has passed bills aimed at declaring a moratorium on off-shore drilling in the Great Lakes and in stiffening penalties for drunk driving.

Under a bill sponsored by Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, the State Department of Natural Resources would be forbidden to issue permits to conduct exploratory drilling for oil or gas in the Great Lakes until July 1, 1972.

The halt would allow time for studies at various levels of government into possible drilling controls.

Whether the moratorium will go into effect remained uncertain, however. Kehres admitted pressure of a pending summer recess may kill the bill's chances for senate consideration.

Stiffer penalties for drunk driving — fines of up to $300 instead of $100—were endorsed in another house bill passed on to the Senate Thursday.

In preliminary action, however, the House voted not to toughen standards of intoxication that may be established by blood or breathalyzer tests.

Amendments proposed by Reps. Donald Holbrook, R-Clare, and J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, would have lowered those limits.

Traxler, chairman of the Hou Judiciary Committee, said he had changed his mind and did not support them because he believed such standards of little value in curbing traffic accicents.

Chronic alcoholics, not "social drinkers," cause the "majority" of accidents involving drunk driving, Traxler said.

Some legislators also scoffed at blood tests, saying they are often conducted improperly and are based on value judgments by police officers bent on making an arrest rather than examining evidence objectively.

There was disagreement about the intoxicating potency of one drink. Rep. Thomas Guastello, D-Sterling Heights, said one "large martini" poured into a 140-pound man would register 7-100ths per cent just under the legally drunk mark on a breathalyzer.

Rep. James F. Smith, R-Davison, said eight ounces of 80 proof whiskey drunk by a 150-pound man may will produce an alcohol level of .15 per cent in the blood stream.

Rep. George H. Edwards, D-Detroit, said, "You can get the same results with onions as alcohol."

Use Of Mideast Word Clarified

By The Associated Press

The words "Palestine" and "Palestinian" are often in the Middle East news these days. Here, briefly, is their meaning:

Palestine, the area that was long under Turkish rule and then under British mandate before Israel was created in 1948, no longer exists as an entity. In general, it means the Holy Land. The word comes from the Greek for Philistia, home of the ancient Philistines. The area became split between Israel and Jordan in the 1948-67 period; in 1967 Israel occupied land claimed by Jordan including the Old City of Jerusalem which the Jordanians had held.

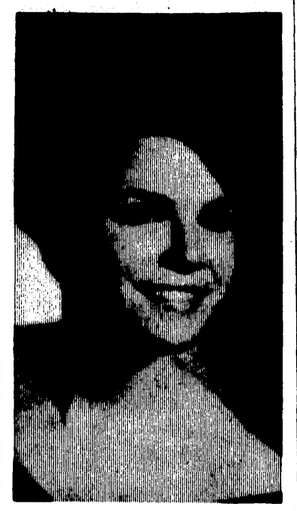

Palistinians in general are the Arabs who lived in Palestine under the British mandate, or those who are descended from these people. About 800,000 of these left or were forced out of the Israeli-commanded area at the time Israel was formed, and many of them and their descendants occupy refugee camps. It is the avowed aim of guerrilla groups in Arab countries to restore these people to their old homes. The guerrillas are called fedayeen, Arabic for self-sacrificer.

"The outlook for the summer is not encouraging," Ford said, "since many of those laid off have the least skills and the lowest seniority. We expect job opportunities to remain scarce until fall...when the auto companies begin full production on new models and the national economy begins its expected pickup."

He said that a May estimate represents an increase of 55,000 unemployed over May last year. The May advance figure for the entire state's unemployment was 222,000, oe 6.2 per cent of the labor force.

Michigan's percentage for May was the highest for that month since 1962, when 6.8 per cent of the labor force was jobless, and was consideraby above the national average of 5 per cent for the same month.

Ford said May unemployment in the Detroit area during May was 101,000, or 5.8 per cent of the labor force. This was an increase of 5,000 unemployed over April's 96,000 or 5.6 per cent.

Reformed Church Rejects Merger Plan At Session

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—Two attempts to secure greater involvement by the Reformed Church in America in the ecumenical movement were rejected by the denomination's synod Friday.

The 280 delegates turned down a request seeking to have the Reformed Church take steps toward possible union with the United Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Such a merger was approved by the southern Presbyterian group last year but the Reformed Church vetoed any such union. The proposal touched off a heated battle last year within the Reformed denomination and even an unsuccessful motion to dissolve the church.

The second proposal vetoed Friday called upon the reformed Church to become a full participant in the Council on Church Union.

While rejecting that suggestion, the synod delegates did vote to send a copy of the council's plan of union to each Reformed Church.

Attorney Trying For Political Fund Cost Exemption

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Attorney William H. Maness is trying to convince the government that the $7,171 he spent in two unsuccessful political campaigns was simply a lawyer's way of advertising and the costs should be deductible.

The Internal Revenue Service contends Maness owes $2,246 tax on the money he spent in 1966 and 1967 campaigns for the state Senate.

Maness declared, "Much is said in every law school about the duty of lawyers to seek public office, not only for the fulfillment of the high calling of a lawyer but also as a practical means of advertising."

The former circuit judge said his income jumped from $48,536 in 1966 to $63,820 in 1968, and that this was concrete evidence his advertising paid off.

Off-Shore Drilling Moratorium Asked

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House has passed bills aimed at declaring a moratorium on off-shore drilling in the Great Lakes and in stiffening penalties for drunk driving.

Under a bill sponsored by Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, the State Department of Natural Resources would be forbidden to issue permits to conduct exploratory drilling for oil or gas in the Great Lakes until July 1, 1972.

The halt would allow time for studies at various levels of government into possible drilling controls.

Whether the moratorium will go into effect remained uncertain, however. Kehres admitted pressure of a pending summer recess may kill the bill's chances for senate consideration.

Stiffer penalties for drunk driving – fines of up to $300 instead of $100--were endorsed in another house bill passed on to the Senate Thursday.

In preliminary action, however, the House voted not to toughen standards of intoxication that may be established by blood or breathalyzer tests.

Amendments proposed by Reps. Donald Holbrook, R-Clare, and J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, would have lowered those limits.

Traxler, chairman of the Hou Judiciary Committee, said he had changed his mind and did not support them because he believed such standards of little value in curbing traffic accicents.

Chronic alcoholics, not "social drinkers," cause the "majority" of accidents involving drunk driving, Traxler said.

Some legislators also scoffed at blood tests, saying they are often conducted improperly and are based on value judgments by police officers bent on making an arrest rather than examining evidence objectively.

There was disagreement about the intoxicating potency of one drink. Rep. Thomas Guastello, D-Sterling Heights, said one "large martini" poured into a 140-pound man would register 7-100ths per cent just under the legally drunk mark on a breathalyzer.

Rep. James F. Smith, R-Davison, said eight ounces of 80 proof whiskey drunk by a 150-pound man may will produce an alcohol level of .15 per cent in the blood stream.

Rep. George H. Edwards, D-Detroit, said, "You can get the same results with onions as alcohol."

Use Of Mideast Word Clarified

By The Associated Press

The words "Palestine" and "Palestinian" are often in the Middle East news these days. Here, briefly, is their meaning:

Palestine, the area that was long under Turkish rule and then under British mandate before Israel was created in 1948, no longer exists as an entity. In general, it means the Holy Land. The word comes from the Greek for Philistia, home of the ancient Philistines. The area became split between Israel and Jordan in the 1948-67 period; in 1967 Israel occupied land claimed by Jordan including the Old City of Jerusalem which the Jordanians had held.

Palistinians in general are the Arabs who lived in Palestine under the British mandate, or those who are descended from these people. About 800,000 of these left or were forced out of the Israeli-commanded area at the time Israel was formed, and many of them and their descendants occupy refugee camps. It is the avowed aim of guerrilla groups in Arab countries to restore these people to their old homes. The guerrillas are called fedayeen, Arabic for self-sacrificer.

Briefly Told

A black bear cub was struck and killed by a semi-tractor trailer on U.S. 2 Thursday morning, Michigan State Police report. Robert E. Korth, VanDyne, Wis., told officers the cub ran in front of his vehicle and he was unable to avoid hitting the animal. The mishap occurred about 11:15 a.m. near the Cooks Corners.

Troopers are investigating the reported breaking and entering of a cottage at Harrison Beach owned by Mrs. Russell Watson, 315 Range St. Entry was gained by cutting the screen on the front door and removing a lock and hasp. The break-in occurred sometime between June 8-11. Nothing was reported missing.

Gary Thompson, Manistique, left June 10 for induction into the armed forces, according to Selective Service Clerk, Mrs. Ann Jorgenson. Thompson was presented a gift from the VFW Post. Schoolcraft County has no induction or pre-induction physicals call for July.

Pat Osterhout, 605 West Elk, an employe at the Manistique Medical Care Facilities, completed a week long course Friday at the Michigan United Labor Community Services School at South Haven. Flag Demands Running Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — On the eve of Flag Day, Sunday, banner makers and decal distributors say business is at the top of the pole.

"Demand is up sharply, I'd say over 100 per cent above last year," said a spokesman for Annin & Co. in New York, the largest producer of cloth flags in the country. "It's more than the industry can handle."

"We've doubled our sales in the last 18 months," said H.J. Sanders, general manager of Dettra Flag Co., Inc., near San Francisco.

In Virginia, an official of Mount Vernon Flagmakers said demand is greater than at any time in memory, and New England flag factories report they are running several weeks behind in filling orders.

Prest-On Products Co. of New York says its sales of flag decals are up 10 times from last year with about 750,000 of the index card- size decals sold so far this year.

"We're selling them to political groups and to demonstrators, like the construction workers, and then there are bulk sales—we don't know where they go," a Prest-On spokesman said.

"It's a patriotic effort; we're just hoping we can break even," said a spokesman for Pepsi-Cola, which has offered a 3x5 foot cotton flag for $2.79 plus handling charges to customers in the metropolitan New York area for about a month.

The spokesman said Pepsi has received 5,000 orders so far.

More than a year ago, Reader's Digest inserted a flag decal in copies of the magazine. Since then, a spokesman said, the magazine has sold or given away nearly 54 million decals.

Many observers see the increased display of the flag as a reaction by middle-class Americans to demonstrations in which U.S. flags were desecrated or Viet Cong flags displayed.

Flags also have been used by antiwar groups.

Save our Flag Co., for instance, offered a decal that showed an American flag on the body of a dove of peace. The company urged people not to let "super patriots" take over the flag.

Speaker's Chair Vacant In Tribute To Walter Reuther

NEW YORK (AP)—The speakers chair stood vacant today at commencement exercises of Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, in tribute of UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who was to have addressed the graduates.

A posthumous honorary doctor of laws degree was conferred upon Reuther during the ceremonies.

Reuther, his wife and four other persons died in a plane crash May 3.

Divorce Measure Compromise KO'd

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican has denied a report that it was attempting to make a deal with the Italian government to kill the divorce bill.

The Roman Catholic Church is alleged to have offered to "normalize" the status of millions of separate spouses and to make annulments easier in return for a renunciation of legalized divorce by Italy.

The alleged deal was reported in today's L'Espresso, the leftist weekly, which carried an interview with the chief exponent of the Italian divorce movement, Socialist deputy Loris Fortuna.

Asked about the L'Espresso article, the Vatican spokesman Msgr. Fausto Vallainc said: "It is not true."

Flag Demands Running Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — On the eve of Flag Day, Sunday, banner makers and decal distributors say business is at the top of the pole.

"Demand is up sharply, I'd say over 100 per cent above last year," said a spokesman for Annin & Co. in New York, the largest producer of cloth flags in the country. "It's more than the industry can handle."

"We've doubled our sales in the last 18 months," said H.J. Sanders, general manager of Dettra Flag Co., Inc., near San Francisco.

In Virginia, an official of Mount Vernon Flagmakers said demand is greater than at any time in memory, and New England flag factories report they are running several weeks behind in filling orders.

Prest-On Products Co. of New York says its sales of flag decals are up 10 times from last year with about 750,000 of the index card- size decals sold so far this year.

"We're selling them to political groups and to demonstrators, like the construction workers, and then there are bulk sales--we don't know where they go," a Prest-On spokesman said.

"It's a patriotic effort; we're just hoping we can break even," said a spokesman for Pepsi-Cola, which has offered a 3x5 foot cotton flag for $2.79 plus handling charges to customers in the metropolitan New York area for about a month.

The spokesman said Pepsi has received 5,000 orders so far.

More than a year ago, Reader's Digest inserted a flag decal in copies of the magazine. Since then, a spokesman said, the magazine has sold or given away nearly 54 million decals.

Many observers see the increased display of the flag as a reaction by middle-class Americans to demonstrations in which U.S. flags were desecrated or Viet Cong flags displayed.

Flags also have been used by antiwar groups.

Save our Flag Co., for instance, offered a decal that showed an American flag on the body of a dove of peace. The company urged people not to let "super patriots" take over the flag.

Speaker's Chair Vacant In Tribute To Walter Reuther

NEW YORK (AP)—The speakers chair stood vacant today at commencement exercises of Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, in tribute of UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who was to have addressed the graduates.

A posthumous honorary doctor of laws degree was conferred upon Reuther during the ceremonies.

Reuther, his wife and four other persons died in a plane crash May 3.

Divorce Measure Compromise KO'd

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican has denied a report that it was attempting to make a deal with the Italian government to kill the divorce bill.

The Roman Catholic Church is alleged to have offered to "normalize" the status of millions of separate spouses and to make annulments easier in return for a renunciation of legalized divorce by Italy.

The alleged deal was reported in today's L'Espresso, the leftist weekly, which carried an interview with the chief exponent of the Italian divorce movement, Socialist deputy Loris Fortuna.

Asked about the L'Espresso article, the Vatican spokesman Msgr. Fausto Vallainc said: "It is not true."

'Flea Market' Space Offered

Wednesday, June 17, is Flea Market Day in Escanaba from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Escanaba merchants are donating space in front of their places of business to individuals and groups with any saleable merchandise.

If there are individuals or groups who have not already reserved space, it is still available, and can be had by calling the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, 786-2192.

The retail division of the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the first Flea Market to be held in Escanaba as a cooperative event between local merchants and residents of the area. Residents and groups will have things to sell on tables, racks and booths arranged as a street market on Ludington street. The merchants will promote specials in their stores for this one-day June event.

At present there are reservations for book sales, bake sales, food stands, shoe shine stands, hand made rugs, crafts of different kinds, white elephant sales, rummage sales, cook book sales, afghan sales, plus many other sale events.

If the June Flea Market is successful, it will become an annual event in Escanaba, as it is in so many areas of the country.

Detroiter Given Death Sentence

BOSTON (AP)—John S. Stewart, 47, of Detroit was convicted of first degree murder recently in the robbery shooting of a Boston policeman March 17, 1969. Stewart was immediately sentenced to death by electrocution.

In sentencing Stewart, a drifter whose last known address was in Boston, Judge Walter H. McLaughlin noted he had a record of violence since he became an adult.

Fires Of Inflation Failing To Get People 'Steamed Up'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you been complaining less about price increases recently? There's a growing feeling among some merchants that while you may not be enjoying price rises, you're becoming less perturbed.

The suspicion cannot be easily documented, and indeed it seems to be contradictory. If people were perturbed last year by 5 and 6 per cent increases, why shouldn't they be this year, when the rates are the same?

Earlier in the battle, housewives picketed stores, boycotted products forced some stores to drop gimmicks and trading stamps, wrote irate letters to anyone who would listen. Now while the fires of inflation continue to be stoked, far less steam is hissing from the boilers.

Merchants Helping

Part of the explanation might lie in a feeling that retailers have become more responsive to consumer demands and are making serious efforts to keep down living costs. But indifference quite likely plays a large role. People may be tiring of the battle.

Another clue is provided by the most recent University of Michigan report on consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy. It found that consumer buying sentiment continued to decline, but not only because prices were rising.

The deterioration in buying sentiment, said George Katona and Jay Schmiedeskamp of the university's Survey Research Center, "was caused mainly by increased awareness of the economic slowdown and growing unemployment."

Only Hurts A Little

Higher prices played a less significant role. "In view of rising incomes," the researchers said, "most peole say that inflation hurts them only a little, and less than 25 per cent that it hurts them much or very much."

Compare that attitude with the fired-up feelings of the housewives' revolt against retailers a few years ago, when increases weren't as great as they are now.

Adapted To Inflation

The adaptation to inflation, slight as it may be, is bad news from administration officials who hope to bring a return to a more balanced economy. It also suggests an explanation for persistence of higher prices: the resistance just isn't as great as might have been expected.

An adjustment to higher prices is bad news on another front also. It presupposes a continuation of buying power, which means the buyer also expects that his pay check will continue to rise at the same rate as prices.

Perhaps ordinary Americans detect something that administration economists have been reluctant to concede—that inflation may be with this nation a lot longer and a lot more intensively than once believed.

Fight Continues

Eighteen months ago administration officials spoke confidently about a war on inflation to the unconditional end, and there was little doubt in their minds that they would win.

Even when the evidence began to mount against them they stuck to their guns, but private economists, some of whom make a living from second guessing the administration, began to revise their figures upward.

Now it isn't uncommon to find experienced forecasters submitting to the thesis that inflation of 3 or even 4 per cent a year might become chronic over the next decade or more.

Argument Noted

Their argument goes something like this: The United States is committed to a full employment policy; efforts to create high employment always seem to attract inflation.

They argue further, that any attempt to cool the economy—such as is occurring now, is likely to be thwarted before it produces the desired results because of the need to provide jobs for underprivileged members of society.

While this could very well be so, the more immediately troubling development is the apparent acceptance of inflation by a great number of people who were fighting mad just a year or so ago.

Fires Of Inflation Failing To Get People 'Steamed Up'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you been complaining less about price increases recently? There's a growing feeling among some merchants that while you may not be enjoying price rises, you're becoming less perturbed.

The suspicion cannot be easily documented, and indeed it seems to be contradictory. If people were perturbed last year by 5 and 6 per cent increases, why shouldn't they be this year, when the rates are the same?

Earlier in the battle, housewives picketed stores, boycotted products forced some stores to drop gimmicks and trading stamps, wrote irate letters to anyone who would listen. Now while the fires of inflation continue to be stoked, far less steam is hissing from the boilers.

Merchants Helping

Part of the explanation might lie in a feeling that retailers have become more responsive to consumer demands and are making serious efforts to keep down living costs. But indifference quite likely plays a large role. People may be tiring of the battle.

Another clue is provided by the most recent University of Michigan report on consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy. It found that consumer buying sentiment continued to decline, but not only because prices were rising.

The deterioration in buying sentiment, said George Katona and Jay Schmiedeskamp of the university's Survey Research Center, "was caused mainly by increased awareness of the economic slowdown and growing unemployment."

Only Hurts A Little

Higher prices played a less significant role. "In view of rising incomes," the researchers said, "most peole say that inflation hurts them only a little, and less than 25 per cent that it hurts them much or very much."

Humphrey, EMK Both Seeking Senate Posts

By The Associated Press

Hubert H. Humphrey and Edward M. Kennedy will battle half-a-continent apart this fall for seats in the U.S. Senate that could put both in a race for the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey, announcing his candidacy today in Minnesota, hopes to make his political comeback by winning the seat now held by Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., who is not seeking re-election.

Kennedy was unanimously endorsed by the Massachusetts State Democratic Convention Friday and he told fellow Democrats he would serve a full six-year term if elected. He was thus saying he would not reach for the White House in 1972.

But both Kennedy and Humphrey would come under increasing pressure from others to seek their party's nomination in 1972 if they are victorious in November. Democratic Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien already has touted Kennedy as a possible candidate.

In an unrelated Senate contest, incumbent Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., issued a brief statement Friday saying he would neither seek nor accept his state's Democratic Senate nomination.

The 63-year-old senator has been plagued in recent months by heart trouble and considerable Democratic party opposition for the nomination.

There is speculation Dodd will seek re-election to a third term as an independent or third party candidate.

Wounded Pilot Asks Stronger Hijack Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The wounded captain of a hijacked Trans World Airlines jetliner has called for stronger penalties to deter sky pirates.

"There must be some way of keeping these people from returning to society," said Capt. Dale Hupe, 50, who was shot in the abdomen in a scuffle with a hijacker June 4.

Severe punishment might discourage air pirates, he added, but "just what it would be I don't know."

The former Marine Corps aviator, speaking from a wheelchair in his first public appearance since the hijacking, said 'it was the best feeling I ever had" when shot.

"We knew then we had him stopped," he explained.

Arthur G. Barkley, 49, Phoenix, was charged with aircraft piracy and interfering with a flight crew following the scuffle while the jet was on the ground at Dulles International Airport.

Hupe said the hijacker was extremely upset when he commandeered the flight from Phoenix to Washington, but it wasn't until later he concluded Barkley meant to kill the crew and all 57 passengers aboard.

At that point, Hupe said, he and copilot Don Solmonson decided to jump Barkley.

The pilot said an FBI agent was the real hero of the drama.

Referring to an agent who entered the cockpit while the gunman held the crew at bay, Hupe said, "Anybody who'd allow himself up into a gunsight is a very brave man."

'Trash Explosion' In U.S. Immense

Weather

ESCANABA AND VICINITY Variable cloudiness with a chance of showers and thundershowers today and early tonight. Partly cloudy to fair later tonight and Sunday. Little temperature change. High today in the upper 60s, low tonight in mid 50s. Sunday's high expected to reach lower 70s. Escanaba's high Friday was 68 with a low of 57 recorded overnight. Sun sets today at 8:39 and rises Sunday at 4:58.

THIS WAS THE SCENE early Friday along Summter Avenue in Brooklyn where the setting of trash fires set off sporadic disorders. A police car was firebombed, windows were broken and some stores were looted, officers said. No injuries were reported but police told of 11 arrests following the disorders. (AP Wirephoto)

Minimum Wage Hike Gets Senate Okay

LANSING (AP) — Thousands of Michigan wage earners stand only one legislative battle away from higher pay checks today, after the Senate approved a House-passed bill boosting the $1.25 hourly minimum by 20 cents.

The bill, approved 24-11 after bitter debate Friday, hikes the minimum wage to $1.45 hourly as of July 1.

Priority Item

Gov William Milliken, who called the bill a "priority item," hailed Senate action as "a major step in assuring a cost of living increase" for many and noted the increase would be the first since 1967.

That increase, however, may become mired in debate over when a second increase — to $1.60 an hour—would take effect. The House-passed bill slated that increase for Jan. 1, 1971, but the Senate pushed that back to July 1, 1971.

Compromise Possible

There had been some talk of a compromise, dividing the difference and scheduling the $1.60 hourly minimum to take effect in April 1971, but lawmakers indicated that idea may have fallen by the wayside—at least now—because of a hassle over agricultural workers.

In Senate debate, some members tried to exclude agricultural workers from any increase that might be provided for them under terms of a piece work rate schedule already in operation.

Their pay is recommended by the State Wage Deviation Board, which computes the amount on the basis of an average worker's production, with one unit divided into the minimum hourly wage.

Recommended Pay

For example, if a worker picked an average of five quarts of strawberries an hour, the five would be divided into $1.25 and the recommended pay would be 25 cents a quart.

Sen. Gary Byker, R-Hudsonville, tried to tack on provisions that the hourly rate for agricultural workers might not exceed the federal minimum rate for agriculture—some 30 cents below the $1.60.

Without such an amendment, Byker argued, the bill "would have an adverse effect on many parts of agriculture" because farmers might not be able to afford it.

His amendment failed, as did one by Senate Labor Chairman Oscar Bouwsma, R-Muskegon, who sought to limit the amount by which the piece rate scale would be increased.

Senate Appropriations Chairman Charles O. Zollar, a Benton Harbor Republican who also is a fruit grower, said farmers already are forced, by competition, to pay higher rates than recommended by the wage deviation board.

Explains "No" Vote

Sen. Sander Levin, D-Berkley, called the proposed amendments an attempt to "emasculate the piece-rate plan."

Sen. Alvin DeGrow, R-Pigeon, explained his "no" vote on the bill by saying he was "afraid we have just taken another step in eliminating jobs for many of the people who need them the most"—the migrants.

In other action Friday, the Senate passed and sent to the House a proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize a governor to appoint a lieutenant governor if the second spot in Michigan's executive hierarchy were vacant.

Turned down by an overwhelming 13-18 vote—26 votes were required for passage—was another constitutional amendment that would have asked Michigan voters to rule on whether the state should have a new capitol.

Proposal Beaten

Defeated also was a proposal, by Sen. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn, to eliminate bar exams for anyone graduated from an accredited Michigan law school. That bill was slated for reconsideration next week, with backers talking about a possible amendment that would free the top 50 per cent of law school graduating classes from the 2½ days of bar exams.

Tate Death Trial To Begin Monday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Despite raucous disruptions, ejection of defendants from court and a clutter of legal tangles, the long-delayed trial of four members of a hippie-type clan charged with the Sharon Tate murders remains scheduled to begin Monday.

Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older ordered clan leader Charles Manson and three shapely women followers removed from court Friday when they became unruly and indicated he'll do the same during the trial if they act up.

Then the judge disposed of the last pretrial motions which could have delayed the trial, refusing to act on some, including a motion for a continuance. The trial date was set in April.

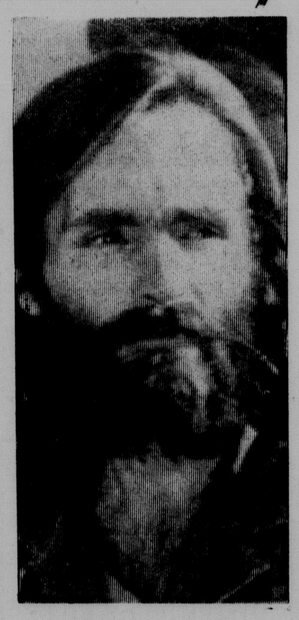

Manson and the three women were ejected for the third time Friday when they came to court and stood in a pose of crucifixion—arms extended at sides and heads bowed. The judge ordered bailiffs to put them in their seats, and a commotion ensued.

Manson — once called "God and "Christ" by his followers-wrestled with three bailiffs as they held his wrists, tugged on his long mane of hair and tried to handcuff him. Red-faced and howling, he was led from court.

The three other defendants-Susan Atkins, 21, Leslie Van Houten, 20, and Patricia Krenwinkel, 22—followed. But first, the colorfully clad women shouted at the judge and spectators.

The judge has indicated he will continue invoking rights outlined in a recent Supreme Court decision which allow an unruly defendant to be barred from court or bound and gagged during trial.

They are charged in the macabre murders of blonde, pregnant Miss Tate and six others.

Kidnapers Ask Release Of 28

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — The kidnapers of West German Ambassador Ehrenfried von Hollenben have demanded 28 political prisoners as ransom and have issued a call for guerrilla war.

President Emilio Garrastazu Medici's military regime distributed the lengthy manifesto to newspapers and radio stations without comment, today, apparently at the demand of the kidnapers.

The document charged that the "military dictatorship unmasks itself more and more as an enemy of the people, as a servant of the big foreign capitalists as well as the big property holders."

"Only revolutionary war, guerrilla action and rural guerrilla warfare will bring the Brazilian people to freedom, it said.

Nine young men and a woman carrying machine guns kidnaped the 61-year-old ambassador Thursday night near his home in the Gloria section of Rio.

Also accepted were three grants totaling $836,000 for student aid.

The WSU board acknowledged $76,970 in gifts for a one-month period.

Hickel May Be Next Casualty, Times Claims

NEW YORK (AP) — There is speculation that Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel may soon resign or be dismissed from his cabinet post in view of faltering relations with President Nixon, the New York Times said in its Saturday edition.

Quoting unnamed Capitol Hill sources, the newspaper said Hickel's successor may be Fred J. Russell, named undersecretary of the interior by Nixon last March to succeed Russell E. Train.

Train was appointed chairman of the new Council on Environmental Quality.

The latest breach between Nixon and Hickel, the newspaper said, occurred Thursday when Hickel reportedly was told by the White House not to attend a press briefing on proposed legislation to cancel 20 federal oil leases in the Santa Barbara Canal.

Hickel did not appear, although his department had prepared a press release on the bill. The Times said the release was withheld, with Hickel reported "deeply hurt and angered" at the White House order.

The Times added that Hickel has met privately with the President only once since May 6, when he sent a controversial letter to Nixon suggesting that the administration was not sufficiently concerned with the attitude of young people.

One official said Nixon proposed during that meeting—on May 28—that Hickel run for his old job as governor of Alaska, but that Hickel had rejected the idea.

Body Of Another Reporter Found In Battle Zone

NEW YORK (AP) — The Columbia Broadcasting System says Cambodian authorities have found the body of CBS News reporter-producer Gerald Miller in a grave near Tran Knar, about 34 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

A CBS spokesman said Friday Miller's body was exhumed near the site where the body of CBS correspondent George Syvertsen was found June 3.

The bodies of two other men, believed to be those of CBS cameraman Ramnik Lekhi and a Cambodian driver, San Leng, were also found at the site of a May 30 ambush. The fates of four other newsmen involved in the ambush have not been determined.

Anti-War Senators Face New Challenge Over Cambodia Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-war senators may face another administration-backed challenge before a final vote is taken on a proposal to restrict presidential war powers in Cambodia.

Asst. Republican Leader Robert P. Griffin of Michigan indicated Friday he would attempt to eliminate a provision of the Cooper-Church amendment designed to bar U.S. financial support for nations aiding the shaky Cambodian government.

Will Take "Soundings"

Griffin said at one point Friday he wanted to take soundings to see if his amendment would be an exercise in futility. Later, he indicated he may call it up Tuesday for a vote on Wednesday.

The final vote on the amendment by John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, probably will come late next week.

The antiwar forces, who scored a 52-47 victory over a key administration-backed amendment on Thursday, are confident they can turn back the Griffin amendment and any other proposals designed to water down the Cooper-Church amendment.

Approval Urged

President Nixon has urged approval of a provision like Griffin's, presumably to enable the United States to pick up the tab for Thailand and other Asian nations seeking to aid Cambodia.

A battery of other amendments to the military sale authorization bill—vehicle for the Cooper-Church amendment and the five-week debate on U.S. involvement in Cambodia—may be considered first, including proposals designed to curb U.S. weapons sales to Greece and to prevent shipment of chemical weapons from Okinawa to the United States.

Amendments Rayoed

Fear that prospects for sale of jet planes to Israel might be jeopardized led the Senate to defeat by wide margins Friday a pair of amendments by Sen. John J. Qilliams, R-Del.

It rejected 56 to 6 his proposal to knock the money out of the bill—designed to force the executive branch to submit item-by-item lists of proposed sales for future congressional approval—and defeated 59 to 1 his move to delete language expressing congressional support for arms sales to Israel.

President Backed

After the first vote, Williams said it meant the Senate was willing to let the President sell arms to any nation in the world, including Communist China and Russia. "They feel that the President knows best," he said.

But Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., replied, "I don't really feel it has all these broad, deep connotations."

Viet Cong Use Sacred Temples

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — A Cambodian military spokesman said today that the Viet Cong were setting up hospitals and storage areas in the famed temple ruins at Angkor, 185 miles northwest of Phnom Penh.

He also said more Viet Cong were massing near Kompong Speu, a provincial capital on the only highway open between Phnom Penh and Cambodia's major port.

Maj. Am Rong said villagers in the Angkor area had told of the Viet Cong installations there and had reported fighting between Cambodian and Communist forces in the temple complex. He said he did not know which temples the Viet Cong were using as hospitals and storage areas.

The major said the Communist troops "don't respect our sacred place. Making storage areas and hospitals in temples is not only a serious matter to us but to all those interested in cultural aspects of Temples".

Fighting continued for the second day today at Kompong Speu, a provincial capital on Route 4, the only highway still open between Phnom Penh and the port city of Kompong Som.

Kent U. Graduates Told Many Suffer For Dissenting Few

KENT, Ohio (AP) — Kent State University President Robert I. White told 1,250 graduates today there must be an end to racism and a narrowing of the generation gap, and that extremists must learn that constructive change is possible.

He also warned the graduates, attending commencement exercises under tight security, that the public tends to blame all college students for the destruction committed by a few.

The commencement was the first major event on campus since a court order closed the university following the shooting deaths of four students May 4 during a confrontation with the Ohio National Guard.

The campus security force was tripled for the event, although officials said there was no indication there would be trouble. The court order that closed the campus was relaxed further to permit holding a summer session scheduled to start June 22.

Finch Planning 'Progress' Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch plans to launch an extensive publicity campaign to erase any impression he was a failure as secretary of health, education and welfare.

"I'm going to be meeting with a lot of press members in the next few days," the outgoing secretary said Friday.

As he made the statement, the department handed out a list of 67 "initiatives and accomplishments" made during Finch's term as head of HEW.

Finch becomes a presidential counselor next week. President Nixon named Elliot L. Richardson to succeed Finch. Richardson, who won unanimous approval Friday from the Senate Finance Committee, is expected to be confirmed by the full Senate next week.

Finch criticized press reports that he "copped out" of the Welfare Department job or was kicked upstairs to the White House.

"I happen to think we have accomplished a great deal in the past 16 months," he said. He cietd a revolutionary reform plan currently stalled in Congress as a major accomplishment.

The department listed a doubling of Southern school desegregation, reorganization of the Food and Drug Administration and creation of a new engineering agency as some of the positive actions taken under Finch's stewardship.

Finch's White House tasks include supervising U.S. aid for Peruvian earthquake victims and planning post-Vietnam domestic priorities.

Estimated 700 Persons Dead Or Wounded

By The Associated Press

Scattered firing broke out today in Jordan after a day of calm that followed a cease-fire agreement between King Hussein and Palestinian guerrillas.

It could not be determined if the firing signified renewed fighting in the Jordanian capital, Amman. The gunshots were heard as the evacuation of the foreign community continued.

Plane Chartered

One plane chartered by the International Committee of the Red Cross left Amman for Beirut. It carried 90 wives and children of U.N. personnel in Jordan as well as a group of Americans who were unable to make two planes that left Friday night with U.S. citizens aboard.

Two more planeloads carrying 120 British dependents were expected to leave Amman later today. Foreigners leaving Jordan are doing so voluntarily for their own safety and not at the request of the Jordanian government.

Warning Issued

Throughout the morning, Amman radio appealed to the population to beware of groups attempting to spread false rumors and create more chaos.

The broadcast said, however, that the situation was calm in all parts of the country.

Amman radio also quoted a directive from the Foreign Ministry of Jordanian embassies abroad asserting that normalcy had returned and that all signs of tension had disappeared in the capital.

Tensions appeared to have eased in Amman Friday after an Arab guerrilla leader freed 62 foreign hostages, saying he was satisfied with concessions made by King Hussein.

Rubble Everywhere

Travelers from the embattled city reported that after five days of virtual war between Jordanian troops and guerrillas the streets were filled with rubble, wrecked vehicles and bodies. An estimated 700 persons were killed or wounded in the strife, touched off by an army crackdown on guerrilla activities.

The hostages--21 Americans, 35 Britons and 6 West Germans —were told by Dr. George Habash, head of the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, that Hussein had met the group's demands and they were free to go.

Major Concession

Hussein made a major concession to the guerrillas Thursday when he dismissed his uncle and his cousin from command of important army units. There was no indication that Hussein acceded to a guerrilla demand that he renounce his commitment to a political settlement of the Arab nations' dispute with Israel.

Most of the 145 Americans flown out of Amman aboard two Lebanese airliners were women and children. All but 10 of them flew to Ahtens after a brief stopover in Beirut, the Lebanese capital. Among those who went to Athens were the widow and children of Army Maj. Robert P. Perry of Chicago, the U.S. military attache killed by guerrillas who invaded his home in Amman Wednesday.

The State Department in Washington said about 200 American citizens remained in Amman, and a spokesman said any decision on whether to evacuate them would be made by the U.S. charge d'affaires in the Jordanian capital.

Alaskan Oil Boom Jolted By Setback

SEATTLE (AP) — Alaska's efforts to get its arctic oil riches to market hit a serious setback Friday when four oil firms rejected state terms for joint construction of an access road for a proposed pipeline.

"It's an irritating development that carries with it serious problems for Alaska," said Alaska Gov. Keith Miller after officials of the Trans Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS), a consortium of four oil companies, told him their decision.

Construction of the 800-mile pipeline can't begin until an access road is carved through isolated tundra on federal land between the Yukon River and the North Slope. And until the $900 million pipeline is carrying oil to the ice-free port of Valdez on the Gulf of Alaska, the state cannot collect royalties or severance taxes from its oil reserves.

The 300-mile road was to have been built by the state, which would have been reimbursed by TAPS.

Miller proposed the plan when TAPS was blocked by a federal court injunction obtained by conservation groups and red tape from obtaining a right-of-way over federal land. The state could build it legally without federal approval, Miller said.

But the hitch came last week when the Alaska Legislature decided TAPS must repay the $120 million cost of the project within five years at 7.5 per cent interest as a condition for state participation.

The firms—Atlantic-Richfield, British Petroleum, Standard Oil of Ohio and Humble Oil—said the condition "prevents our participation" in the project.

Conservationists claim the proposed pipeline would block the massive caribou migrations of the area. They also fear that a rupture of the line would wreak havoc with the delicate balance of nature on the tundra.

The Interior Department, headed by former Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel, has promised a pipeline permit when TAPS supplies data proving the line will not harm Alaska's fragile arctic ecology. Miller said Friday he was told the data will not be ready until as late as next year.

Woodcock Raps Nixon Choice For Labor Secretary

DETROIT (AP) — Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers Union, said today the union found it "curious that a management man," James Hodgson, had been named Secretary of Labor by President Nixon to succeed George P. Shultz, a former University of Chicago dean.

Hodgson, a former Lockheed Aircraft executive, was promoted from undersecretary of labor.

"The UAW," Woodcock said in a statement, "does not question the integrity of Mr. Hodgson.

"But," he added, "we do find it curious that a management man becomes charged with the vital function of protecting and furthering, consistent with the national interest, the well-being of American working men and women."

Medicenter Receives JCAH Accreditation

The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals has notified the Escanaba Medicenter of its accreditation as an extended care facility, Joseph N. Heller, administrator of the facility announced today.

JCAH is a non-profit, voluntary organization created to establish standards for operation of medical facilities and to see that these standards are maintained by the accredited facilities.

"We at the Escanaba Medicenter are extremely pleased to have measured up to the exacting standards of the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals," Heller said. "Our recognition by the commission is indicative of our continual efforts to maintain the very best in medical care.

"JCAH certification is an indication that the Escanaba Medicenter voluntarily submits its operations to the review of an outside organization with stringent requirements dedicated to the highest standards of medical care."

The Escanaba Medicenter has been accredited under the special category for extended care facilities, which was set up as an independent review category on Jan. 1, 1968.

Criteria for this category include the establishment of an organized medical staff, with a professional nursing staff, and the provision of comprehensive in-patient care of a relatively short-term duration for convalescent patients.

"We would like to express our gratitude to the people of the Escanaba area for their acceptance of the Medicenter as a part of the medical community of this city," Heller said.

Heller also announced that in the year that the Escanaba Medicenter has been in operation it has provided over 9,356 days of patient care.

Suggests Probe Of State Water Resources Group

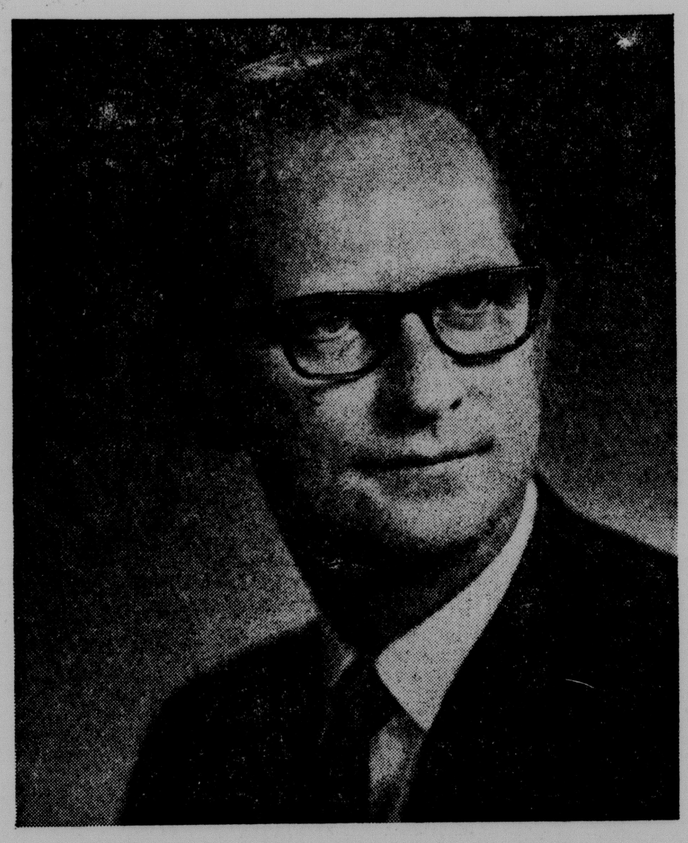

BAY CITY (AP)—An investigation of the Michigan Water Resources Commission has been called for by a man who claims the commission has been "permissive toward industry."

Rick Magnus of Manistee, secretary of the Manistee County Antipollution Organization, made the charge before the Michigan Natural Resources Commission.

Magnus said natural resources are given lesser consideration than industry in the area, and that pollution problems have resulted in Lake Michigan and in Manistee River and Lake.

A total of 58 pipe outlets into Manistee Lake alone were counted by his organization, Magnus said. He claimed two of the pipes were illegal.

In calling for an investigation, Magnus said the Water Resources Commission has not acted with its full authority and has been "permissive toward industry."

Unity Essential

Clifford Luft, former superintendent of schools at Hermansville and just about a week ago on the threshold of a new administrative venture as the superintendent-elect of the new consolidated Powers-Spalding-Hermansville school district, is a man without a job today.

He informed Lester Johnson, chairman of the Interim Board of Education which was appointed by the Menominee County Intermediate Board of Education to run the school district until residents could elect a permanent board, that because of the controversy that has arisen since his appointment that he would not accept the position.

"It is best to get a newly reorganized district off to a good start and it will be difficult to get a good start with all this controversy," he said Friday.

Luft's decision, although from a personal standpoint undoubtedly one of the most difficult he has ever been forced to make, is admirable. It shows a genuine concern for the two communities, for the children and for the progress in education which had been hoped through the unification of the two districts and it should be recognized as such.

★ ★ ★

It is extremely unfortunate that the problem over the selection of a superintendent had to develop at all, yet because this is only one school district now where two districts existed just several weeks ago it was almost inevitable. There can be only one superintendent per district and besides Luft, who was the administrative leader at Hermansville, Jerome Albright carried the necessary credentials as superintendent of the former Powers-Spalding district.

The choice of Luft was made by the Interim Board.

And then the fireworks started. A Committee to Save Our Consolidated Schools was formed in an effort to exert the public pressure necessary on the Interim Board of Education for a reconsideration. Meetings have been held, letters have been written, charges have been leveled — the most serious, perhaps, that the Menominee County Intermediate Board of Education was persuaded to stack the Interim Board with enough anti-Albright members to insure he would not be appointed — and people in the district have grown quite excited about the problem.

Luft's decision made public Friday should, at least, ease the tension for a couple of days. But the problem hasn't gone away.

The immediate reaction is to suggest that the Interim Board avoid the appointment of a superintendent and leave the responsibility to the permanent Board of Education to be elected July 20. Practically, however, that poses some problems.

There is a great deal of work that goes along with organizing a new school district, all the way from preparing class assignments for students and teachers to devising transportation schedules. There may not be time for a new school board to organize, interview candidates and reach a decision after the July 20 election and still get the school district doors open on schedule this fall.

There is also the problem of leaving applicants for the job waiting until so late in the summer. By that time, if an applicant is not selected, it may be too late for him to obtain another administrative job. Schools operate on a July 1-June 30 fiscal year and by late July or early August administrative staffs are usually solid for the coming year. Waiting until late July or August before a decision also would leave the present applicants without a job — and income — for at least a month, not a very cheery prospect.

The Interim Board of Education meets again Monday and the superintendent situation without a question will hold top priority. What's the answer? There probably isn't one which would be totally satisfactory. Maybe it's to name a new superintendent now and stand by him. Maybe it's to name an interim superintendent to serve as long as the interim board and to let the permanent board name a permanent superintendent. Maybe it's to wait until the new board is elected, hiring the clerical and administrative help as necessary to keep the district from sinking before it puts to sea. Maybe there is another answer.

Whatever the decision, if a decision is forthcoming, there is one thing which should be stressed — unity. Residents of the two communities voted to join forces in a single school district in an effort to provide higher quality education and greater educational opportunity for their children. That thought should remain uppermost in all deliberations and action.

Tonnages of cargoes carried through the Soo Locks showed a slight decline for the month of May as compared with a similar period a year ago. For the first two months of the shipping season, however, tonnages were about a half million tons more than for the corresponding period in 1969. During May of this year, 12,361,316 tons of cargo were carried through the Soo, Mich., Locks. This compared with 12,633,577 tons carried during the same month last year. Total tonnage moved through the locks for April and May this year was 18,507,543 tons, compared with 17,972,122 tons up to this time last year.

Votes Show Support For Nixon On War

BY JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Some of the more objective political pros, looking at the recent primaries, tend to think there is a "law of the spectrum" at work which continues to favor center-to-right-leaning candidates over those of the left.

The students may make the noise; the dove "bugout" Senators may get the headlines. And the decibel count has its observable effect on the country, which has been growing uneasy about the length of the Vietnamese War.

But, despite the psychological war weariness, it is still true that in most of the recent Senate and House of Representatives primaries and even in intrastate battles the voters have favored the less dovish of two alternative candidates.

Texas saw the "law of the spectrum" at work when the incumbent Democratic Sen. Ralph Yarborough, liberalissimo of liberalissimos, was knocked off his party primary by the more conservative former Rep. Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. In Pennsylanvia Democratic senatorial primary, in which the Cambodian issue figured rather prominently, the "peace candidate," Norval D. Reece ("Reece for Peace"), was beaten two-to-one by State Sen. William Sesler who has been a moderate on Vietnam.

Though school busing and the issue of "black power" bloc were uppermost in the minds of Alabamans who gave their majority preference to George Wallace for governor, the desire to leave Vietnam with honor has been stressed by Wallace in the past. In a way, the Wallace campaign was a "national" one, its objective being to warn President Nixon to stick to the right in foreign policy as well as in the busing conteretempts.

★ ★ ★

..It could be argued that the Democratic gubernatorial primary, which left the hawkish Mayor Sam Yorty out in the cold in his attempt to wrest the nomination from superdove Jesse Unruh, indicated a clearly definable peace-next-week drift. But Sen. George Murphy, campaigning as "Nixon's man," rather decisively outpointed the millionaire dove, Norton Simon in the Republican primary.

And the most vociferous dove, Rep. George Brown, who had been calling for Nixon's impeachment on the Cambodian issue, lost out in the Democratic senatorial primary to Rep. John V. Tunney, who, though an opponent of continued U.S. military involment in Asia, was considerably less adamant and bilious than his opponent when mentioning the war.

Incidentally, Tunney's father, the former heavyweight champion Gene Tunney, has always been of the fervent anti-Communists around. If it weren't for his son's involvement, Gene Tunney would most likely be in George Murphy's corner. Possibly the California voters sense a parental modifying force in John Tunney's background.

★ ★ ★

The commentators spoke of the conservative Anderson Carter's victory over liberal Governor David Cargo in the New Mexico Republican senatorial primary as an "upset." However, it could have been the normal 1970 operation of the "law of the spectrum" in a Sun Belt state that may be following its next-door neighbor Arizona into the permanent Republican fold.

In the Northeast, in New Jersey, it was quickly noted that the extreme dove, Lewis Kaden, couldn't beat Rep. Edward Patten, a traditional anti-leftist Democrat, in the 15th Congressional District primary even though Kaden had scores of Princeton and Rutgers undergraduates out pulling for him.

The Kaden defeat followed the "law of the spectrum" as it affected most of New Jersey. True enough, the more liberal Republican candidate to take the Congressional seat vacated by Republican Governor Cahill won in the Burlington-Camden-Ocean County area. Yet the contest was close. Despite the fact that he had no Republican organization going for him, the more conservative Walter Smith made a very respectable showing against the liberal Edwin Forsythe, even winning by 8,978 to 7,194 in the single county of Burlington.

Elsewhere in New Jersey the "law of the spectrum" clearly favored the center-leaning candidates. Democratic Congressman Cornelius Gallagher slaughtered the 26-year-old peace candidate, David Wolf. In the New Jersey senatorial primaries all of the contestants were war-weary men. But the less vociferous candidates, Democrat Harrison Williams and Republican Nelson Gross, defeated opponents who would have caused Richard Nixon more trouble if they had won.

To sum things up, the country wants to get out of the war. Nevertheless, it is apparently willing to let Nixon get us out at his own rate of speed and on the well-known Nixon terms of honor.

Letters To The Press

YOUNG AND OLD

I have read so much lately in the papers and have heard on the radio about the campus riots and of how the kids have gone bad today, about the terrible things they are doing.

I have heard many people say "We never did this when we were young." If the kids do somethin good, hardly anyone hears about it. But if a few get in trouble, it seems like all the young people take part of the blame.

Walk down main street some time. Count the sloppy and dirty ones and count the nice ones and you will find there are many more good ones.

I have heard it said many times, the kids are just plain no good. Well, the Lord is still turning out the same Grade A product he has since Adam and Eve. It's what we do with them after they are born that sets their way of life. We mold them, we help them to learn self respect and respect of others, to give the good moral standards, to discipline them when they need it and above all to love them. Have you heard of many delinquents who know they are well loved and wanted by their parents? They are fewer than hen's teeth.

I'm not defending the things some of the young people are doing; they are very wrong. But this is only a very small part of the younger generation.

We are so quick to criticize them, but we are mostly to blame. Adults make the movies that are so degrading that they make a normal person sick. Our young people are permitted to see these films.

We set the rules we expect them to follow and then proceed to break them all ourselves because we are adults. We want them to keep their minds and bodies clean, but how can they, really, with the things they see everyday — sometimes even in their own homes. Many of us don't have time for our children. We have too many other things to do, so we just let them grow and hope for the best.

Sometime a child will get into trouble even though the parents tried very hard to bring them up right. But those, I think, are only a few of the young people. Give them a good foundation and they will grow good and strong.

We have 13 children and all are at home. We love them, one and all. We don't have much to offer them as things of the world go, but with the Lord's help we will bring them up to be good citizens. If something goes wrong with any of them we will stand by them and give them the strength to try again. We don't always understand them, but we try.

The young people today will soon by our leaders and what kind of leaders they will be is mostly up to the parents.

Church Refuses To Be Repository For Draft Cards

HOLLAND (AP)—The general synod of the Reformed Church in America has refused to become a repository for draft cards turned in by youths opposing the draft.

Synod delegates voted 190-50 with 14 abstaining this week to reject a request from a group of youths protesting the war in Vietnam who had urged the synod's members to "put yourself on the line in support of us because we want to do this through the church."

A church spokesman said debate on the controversial issue was generally calm. The spokesman said most delegates indicated their sympathy for the youths but expressed their unwillingness to participate in an act of civil disobedience.

The most heated moment during debate on the draft card resolution came when some delegates tried to bar a Grand Rapids television crew from filming the discussion.

A motion was made to exclude the newsmen from covering the debate but it was defeated 139-100.

Sen. Phillip Hart In Ring, Officially

DETROIT (AP) — Sen. Philup A. Hart, D-Mich., has announced he is a candidate for reelection to a third term in the U.S. Senate.

Hart, 57, is chairman of two Senate subcommittees: Antitrust and Monopoly and Environmental. His opponent in November is expected to be Lenore Romney, wife of the former Michigan governor, George Romney. She has received the endorsement of Republican party leaders, but faces a primary test in August from Sen. Robert Huber, R-Troy.

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 NT	Pass	3 NT

Opening lead — seven of spades.

Declarer has lots to think about in some hands. For example, take this deal where declarer can make many pertinent observations before playing a card from dummy:

1. He starts with eight sure tricks and sees that the contract is cold if he takes a diamond finesse and it succeeds.

2. All hands where West has the king of diamonds are therefore of no concern, since there are twelve tricks available in that case. The play must be planned on the basis that East has the king of diamonds.

3. Which spade should South play from dummy? This depends on who he thinks has the ace. Actually this question is not difficult to solve. West must have it because, according to the Rule of Eleven, East can have only one card higher than the seven, which cannot be the ace, for that would give West the J-10-9-7—and he would have led the jack in such case.

4. If declarer plays the queen it will therefore hold the trick, but he is then subject to defeat when East returns a spade after the diamond finesse fails. The alternative play of the five must therefore be considered.

5. The contract is completely safe if the spades are divided 4-4, so the only hands to worry about are those where the spades are divided 5-3 or 6-2.

6. If they are 5-3, the contract cannot be made against proper defense, so this possibility is excluded from consideration.

7. If the spades are 6-2, the contract cannot be defeated if a low spade is played from dummy and East is permitted to win the trick. In the actual hand, this play results in making ten tricks.

In effect, declarer ignores all cases where his course of play makes no difference. By concentrating on hands where his choice of plays matters, he gives himself the opportunity to make all hands that can be made.

Ice Cooler Chests Ruled Dangerous

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ice chest manufacturers whose products are designed for beer, sandwiches and other picnic items will build emergency escape devices into their new models in an effort to prevent additional deaths among toddlers who have been trapped inside.

At least 16 children have suffocated in picnic coolers since 1961, the Commerce Department reported Thursday. Officials think many other cases may not have made it into the department's records.

Asst. Secretary of Commerce Myron E. Tribus said manufacturers "Have very willingly joined with us" in setting voluntary safety standards that will go into effect with next year's models since most of the coolers to be sold this year have already been manufactured.

Girl Fears Snoring Will Ruin Marriage

Dear Ann Landers: I have a problem I have never seen in your column. I have a real hangup on people who snore. I know where it came from. My mother was widowed when I was five years old. Two years later she married a man I hated. He snored so loud it used to shake the house. I remember lying awake at night and wishing I could put a pillow over his face or stuff a washrag in his mouth. My mother divorced him after three years and I was so happy I cried.

When I went to camp at age 12, I was in a bunk with a girl who snored. I asked to be transferred to another bunk. The counselor said she wouldn't tell the girls why I moved. I promised to keep it a secret and I did.

I realize I have this thing about snoring and now — at age 16 — I am wondering what if I marry a guy who snores? Is there any sure way to find out BEFORE marriage? Please advise. — Worried in Huchinson

Dear Worried: Yes, there is. But I don't recommend it. If the snoring is caused by an obstruction a doctor might be able to help. If there is no obstruction a gentle nudge, or moving the snorer's head to another position usually produces results. As a last resort, ear-plugs can be helpful.

★ ★ ★

Dear Ann Landers: I think I'm the "divorcee" that Lansing mother is worried about. Only I am not a divorcee. My husband was killed in Vietnam. The mother is concerned because her 16-year-old son is spending too much time over here. You told her not to get hysterical — and to have a low-key chat with the boy. I don't agree with your advise, Ann.

The trouble with that mother is she has done too much "chatting" and not enough listening. The boy comes over to my house because he needs someone to talk to. It's pathetic the way he pours out his heart to me. It's obvious nobody else will give him a chance to talk.

She doesn't need to worry about him sowing any wild oats over here. I am his "mother confessor" and nothing more. I'm highly flattered that she has such notions. The boy doesn't, so she can relax that score.

A great many parents feel they should do all the talking. And this is why so many kids go outside the family to express their feelings. Tell it like it is.— Lansing.

Dear Lansing: You did and I thank you.

Dear Ann Landers: I am very hurt and I need your help. A card club I have belonged to for five years disbanded last month. I couldn't understand why. I heard yesterday that the club is now meeting again and they have asked someone in my place. The reason: They resented my huband. Since his retirement he has been kibitzing the game when the women played at our home. I didn't realize the women didn't like to have him around. The truth is, he has no interests now other than mine. I hate to admit it, but he has been getting on my nerves, too. What should be done? — Fort Lauderdale

Dear Fort: More women are writing about this problem now than ever before. I urge you all to make every effort to get your retired husbands involved in activities that will take them away from the house. Florida has some good Golden Age Clubs. There are volunteer jobs to be done. Investigate. Look in the phone book under Organizations. Check them out with the Chamber of Commerce. Don't let HIS retirement ruin your life.

The American Wood Council suggests that home buyers should give careful consideration to roof material. They should ask if the roof is a material that will need replacing in a few years, or if it is a durable covering such as cedar shingles or shakes which will last up to 30 years.

GM Offering Help To Get Rid Of Junk Cars

TRAVERSE CITY, Mich. (AP) — A two-month experiment by General Motors Corp. in the vicinity of the northern Michigan resort of Traverse City may provide a solution to the problem of removing abandoned cars from rural areas.

The vehicles create eyesores on the countryside.

For the next eight weeks, GM, in cooperation with its five dealerships in the area, will remove free of charge any automobiles abandoned within 20 miles of Traverse City.

Roger M. Kyes, executive vice president of GM, said the test is to learn whether the company's program for removing abandoned autos is economically feasible.

Company officials estimate there may be 2,000 to 3,000 junked cars within the test area.

The plan calls for anyone owning or spotting an abandoned car to call a company dealer with details.

The dealer takes the information to law enforcement agencies which will determine if the vehicle is eligible for disposal.

If the car can be disposed of, it is taken to a local auto wrecking yard at GM's expense. Usable material is sent to foundries.

Kyes stressed that there is no intent to interfere with scrap collection methods within the city. But he said moving abandoned wrecks from outlying areas is too costly for most scrap yard operators.

Kyes estimates that about 6.7 million vehicles are disposed of each year, of which about 800,000 are abandoned.

He predicted that the Traverse City tests will show "we have devised a system that not only will remove the accumulation of abandoned vehicles from the countryside, but a system that will be so economically self-sustaining that we can virtually eliminate the possibility of such accumulations occurring again."

Resolution Asks Abandonment Of Proposed Refuge

STEPHENSON—The Menominee County Overall Development and Planning Committee approved a resolution Thursday evening asking for the complete abandonment of the proposed Hayward Lake goose refuge. The meeting was held in the community meeting room of the Bank of Stephenson.

More than 300 families would be forced to sell their farms and move if the project were to become a reality.

Similar resolutions will come before the Menominee City Council Monday evening, and before the County Board of Commissioners when it meets in July.

Doctorate At Yale Target Of Boy, 16

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michael Grost, at age 10, the nation's youngest collegian, now is in pursuit of a doctorate at 16 and will enroll at Yale University this fall.

Grost jumped from the fifth grade to Michigan State University and has been there ever since, earning a master's degree in mathematics last March.

He says he expects to spend roughly two years on his Ph. D. program in math at Yale. If he earns the degree in that time, he will have attained it at an age when most young people are just beginning their college careers.

Grost says that after his studies at Yale, he may go into teaching or some area of mathematical research.

He says he is changing schools at this point because it is standard academic procedure to do graduate and undergraduate work at different institutions, thereby gaining broader experience.

"I've been very happy at Michigan State," he said. "It lived up to my expectations."

Although Grost compiled nearly a straight-A average in his time at MSU, he said, "I had to work hard. It was never a cinch."

Despite his youth, Grost was not the only high school-age graduate student in the MSU math department this past year. Also there was Edith Stern, a 17-year-old who was graduated from Florida Atlantic University at 16. In addition to her studies, she also taught some college math at MSU.

Lead-Based Paint Big City Problem

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay has signed into law a bill permitting landlords to deduct from their real estate taxes three-fourths of the cost of removing or boarding over lead-based paint in their buildings.

The paint is a source of lead poisoning in slum children. It has been estimated that perhaps 6,000 to 8,000 youngsters in New York have significant levels of lead in their bodies as a result of swallowing the paint chips.

Story On Imprisoned AP Reporter Refuted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Paul Miller, president of The Associated Press, says a columnist's claim the AP has been lax in trying to obtain release of a reporter imprisoned by the Egyptian government is irresponsible.

Miller, who also is chairman and chief executive of the Gannett Co. Inc., communications group which operates a number of newspapers and radio and television stations, said the charge by Jack Anderson was "an irresponsible journalistic attack on The Associated Press."

In columns this week Anderson accused the AP and others of "pussyfooting around" in trying to obtain the release of reporters captured by the Viet Cong or imprisoned by foreign governments. He mentioned specifically Ali Mahmoud, an Egyptian reporter for the AP in Cairo.

"The AP has continually pressed the Egyptian government for his release," Miller said of the Mahmoud case while addressing an awards dinner of the Washington chapter of Sigma Delta Chi national professional journalistic society.

"Mahmoud was arrested by Egyptian police on espionage charges for work that had nothing to do with The Associated Press," Miller said. "He was charged with supplying three articles to Munir Abdel Chani, a free-lance photographer. Ghani subsequently was convicted of espionage and sentenced to 15 years."

Miller said the AP obtained a lawyer to defend Mahmoud and the reporter was acquitted. However, Mahmoud has been held by the Egyptian government under regulations passed following the 1967 war with Israel.

"The AP has of course been working in Cairo with the government to obtain his release," Miller added. "Meanwhile, we have been providing financial support for his family, as we should.

"The Anderson column, despite this, goes on to say that the AP hushed up the situation because it did not want to jeopardize its profitable services," Miller said.

"The facts are that the AP moved five stories world-wide on Mahmoud's trial, conviction and detention," Miller said. "This is a peculiar way of hushing things up."

Miller said AP services in Egypt are conducted at a deficit and are maintained there to keep a flow of news going in and out of the Arab world. He said the continuance of AP services has never been raised in connection with the Mahmoud case.

"The AP has had correspondents arrested before and will again, as it fights to get out the news," Miller said. "We have got all of our correspondents out of jail."

Personal responsibility is not "for the birds." It's for the American Eagle!

Seldom in history has the character of a great nation shown such a trend of irresponsibility and indifference as has the American character in the last ten years.

A strong nation is based on a population of strong people who accept moral and personal responsibility. They don't goof off or cop out. When they give their word they keep it. When they undertake a task, they do it to the very best of their ability. They take satisfaction in doing good work.

Economically, the most important result is the excellence and stable prices of the things they produce, and the high quality of service they render. That is what made the United States the strongest nation on earth and—for a long time—made the American Eagle the world's proudest symbol of excellence and reliability.

This loss of dependability and performance—if it keeps up—will make our great country non-great. The American eagle is already a sick bird. He needs a shot of that precious economic vitamin known as Personal Productivity.

Every American who works for a living should ask himself: "Am I part of the problem or part of the answer?"

RAISES THAT RAISE PRICES
RAISE HAVOC

Here's the crystal ball that tells man's economic fortune. Let's spell it out. Man's material welfare (MMW) equals his natural resources (NR) plus the muscular and mental human energy (HE) he applies to them multiplied by the efficiency of his tools (T).

This is PRODUCTION, the source of all economic blessings. You are (HE). For your own sake and everybody else's, keep your eye on the ball.

If you would like to see evidence of the impact that this program is making, ask for our 30th Annual Report.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE BALL!

LOOKING FOR GOD

Some say you find God just as well in a garden, in the woods, or on a golf course as in a church — that God is everywhere. But be honest about it.

Are you not more apt to think of weeds, or mosquitoes, or a poor shot than you are of God? And after all, you have made this outing to seek pleasure.

But when you go to church, it is with the specific intention of worshipping. Here you engage in prayer, praise and thanksgiving. Here you mingle with people who are seeking God and have come to feel His presence. In the quiet beauty of a church you find few outside distractions, and you know that this place is dedicated to the service of God.

For peace and happiness which comes from really feeling God's presence, worship in the house of the Lord this Sunday — make it a regular practice.

Guard In Action

Pictures And Story By Lou Freeman

Company C, 107th Engineer Battalion, Michigan Army National Guard, Gladstone, anticipates a permanent armory home in Gladstone next year.

The National Guard Unit now occupies property owned by Delta County (the old Delta Nursing Home), pending completion in August, 1971, of a new armory in Gladstone.

The Gladstone unit is composed of enlistee's mainly from the Delta County area, but is open to the entire area. Minimum age for enlistment is 18 and maximum is 35. Age may exceed 35 if the enlistee has had previous service.

The National Guard is a reserve component of the Army and members are subject to immediate call at a given notice. During an interview with Sgt. Vernon Rousseau the question of disipline problems was asked and Rousseau said, "our boys know that if they create any problems they will find themselves serving two years of active duty, so consequently we have no discipline problems."

There are presently 145 enlisted men in Company C, under the supervision of five authorized officers designated for this area. Members meet one weekend each month and spend eight hours on each of the two days performing training exercises.

Training exercises include engineering construction, classes on tactics, riot control, weapon firing and many others.

Each summer, members are required to spend a period of two weeks at a designated camp for additional training. Company C, of Gladstone is assigned to Camp Grayling.

In addition to handgun and rifle training received locally, members, while at camp, will receive training in the operation of the grenade launcher, rocket launcher, and machine gun.

During weekend drills, meals are prepared at the armory by members permanently assigned to that detail according to a master menu issued six months in advance.

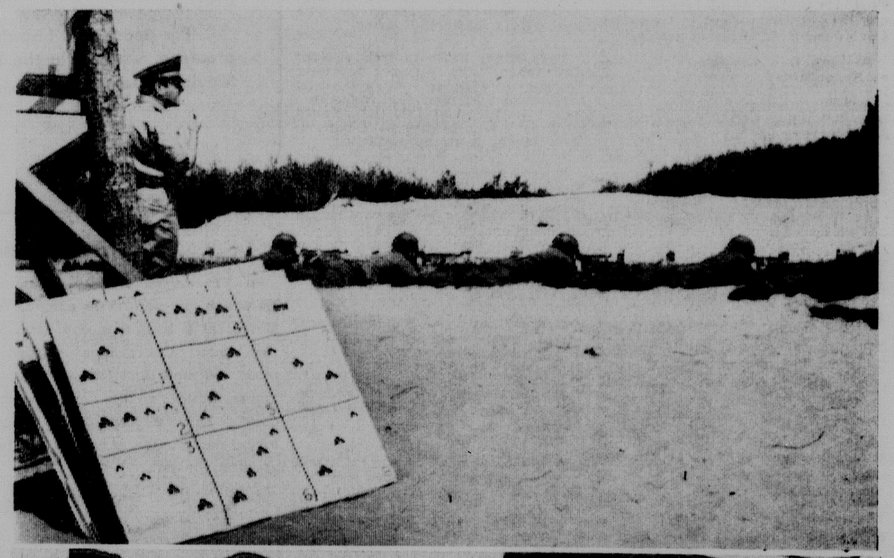

K.P. duty (kitchen police) is performed by all enlisted men according to a duty roster prepared in advance.

All military clothing and equipment is furnished by the National Guard and in the event of loss or theft, members are required to replace them at their own expense. Care and cleaning of uniforms is the responsibility of each member.

Company C soldiers serve proudly in the National Guard and stand ready for our country's defense.

Brewers End Slump; Snyder's 'Slam' Helps

By The Associated Press

The road company of the Milwaukee Brewers, with Russ Snyder in the leading role, finally put on a hit Friday night after 17 consecutife flops.

The veteran outfielder walloped a grand slam homer in the eighth inning after Cleveland pitcher Rich Hand issued three walks with two outs, powering the Brewers to a 4-1 victory, their first triumph away from home in 18 games.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox, another team that subscribes to the theory that home is where the heart and the wins are, dropped a 5-2 decision to the Twins in Minnesota; California beat Detroit 5-2, Oakland tripped Baltimore 4-2 in 11 innings, the New York Yankees blanked Kansas City 5-0 and the Chicago White Sox zeroed Washington 6-0 on Tommy John's Chicago White Sox zeroed Washington 6-0 on Tommy John's two-hitter.

Scoreless Dule

Milwaukee and Cleveland were locked in a scoreless struggle until Hand walked Gus Gil, pitcher Marty Pattin and Tommy Harper in the eighth and Snyder belted his third home run of the season. The Indians scored off Pattin in their half on a walk, wild pitch and Eddie Leon's singles.

The Brewers, a respectable 12-15 at home, had lost 24 of 29 road games, including all 10 in May, and hadn't won away from home since a 5-3 victory in Boston April 26.

"There was no jinx involved, or anything like that," said manager Dave Bristol. "It was real simple—we just weren't playing good. When you play bad you lose no matter where you're playing. When you play good you win no matter where you're playing."

The Red Sox, 20-8 in the friendly confines of Fenway Park, lost for the 19th time in 25 road contests as Ron Perranoski came on in the seventh to strike ou Mike Andrews with two on and two out. The lefty reliever picked up his 14th save.

Winner Jim Perry singled home the first run of the game in the second inning. Brant Alyea and Leo Cardenas doubled runs across in the fifth and the Twins wrapped it up on in the eighth on run-scoring hits by George Mitterwald and Rod Carew. Tom Satriano homered for the Sox.

Yanks On Prowl

The East Division race, which once looked like a runaway for Baltimore, tightened up some more as the Orioles lost and the Yankees won to pull within four games of the Birds.

The A's and Orioles went to the 11th inning tied 2-2 on solo homers by Campy Campaneris and Rick Monday in the first for Oakland and Clay Dalrymple and Don Buford in the sixth for Baltimore.

But in the 11th, Dick Green was hit by a pitch from Eddie Watt, Mudcat Grant sacrificed and Campaneris hit a tie-breaking double and scored himself on Reggie Jackson's double.

Reliever Grant blanked the Orioles over the last four innings and piched out of three scoring threats while lowering his earned run average to a sparkling 0.83 in 26 appearances.

Royals Shutout

Fritz Peterson hurled a five-hitter for the Yanks in becoming the first pitcher to blank the Royals this season. Two errors helped New York to two runs in the third off Dave Morehead, Danny Cater singled a run home in the fifth and Jerry Kenney tripled in the seventh, scoring on Bobby Murcer's single, and homered in the ninth.

Syd O'Brien slammed a solo homer and Ken Berry a three-run shot in support of John's pitching as the White Sox baffled the Senators. The only hits off the lefty were singles by Wayne Comer in the fifth and Ed Brinkman in the ninth.

Bucs' Ellis Hurls 1st '70 No-Hitter

By The Associated Press

Dock Ellis knew he had something going but the strong-armed Pitsburgh right-hander needed a slight adjustment and a diving teammate in hurling the first no-hitter of the 1970 season.

Ellis, a 25-year-old who claims, "You're supposed to mature at 21. I'm four years late," overcame his own wildness Friday night in stopping the San Diego Padres without a hit in the Pirates 2-0 victory in the opener of a twi-night doubleheader.

Team Help

The 6-foot-3, 196-pounder, was backed by a pair of homers by Willie Stargell and an acrobatic catch by second baseman Bill Mazeroski in achieving his masterpiece.

The Padres took the nightcap 5-2 while in other National League action, Cincinnati topped Philadelphia 3-1, New York crushed Atlanta 8-1, St. Louis whipped San Francisco 4-1, Chicago edged Los Angeles 2-1 and Montreal nipped Houston 7-6.

No. 23 For Perez

Tony Perez, the majors, home run and runs batted in leader, ripped his 23rd homer, driving in his 65th and 66th RBI to back the eight-hit, 11 strikeout pitching of the Reds' rookie right-hander Wayne Simpson, who won his ninth game against one loss.

Tommie Agee slamed a pair of solo homers and two singles and scored four runs in leading the Mets over Atlanta.

Cubs Win

Don Kessinger, a late arrival due to a military commitment, stroked a seventh-inning run-scoring double, snapping a 1-1 tie and scoring Billy Williams with the winner. Lefty Ken Holtzman, 7-3, scattered five hits and Jim Hickman, running his hitting streak to 15 games, powered his 15th homer of the season for the Cubs.

John Bateman drilled a three-run homer in Montreal's four-run first inning as the Expos held off the Astros.

Le Mans Sports Car Race Begins

LE MANS, France (AP) — German Porsches and Italian Ferraris set out today to battle for supremacy in the world's longest and toughest sport cars race—the 38th running of the 24 hours of Le Mans.

Porsche, which has never won here, start slightly favored over the Ferrari team, which has registered nine victories between 1954 and 1965.

The race is due to be the fastest ever, with the winning car expected to cover more than 3,106 miles in the 24 hours.

Porsche will line up seven or eight of the 4.5 and 5-liter 917 cars which have already won the world's sport car championship. Ferrari has entered 11 of its 512 S models and despite having only one triumph in the series this year—that victory in the longest of the race, the 24 hours of Sebring.

A secondary struggle will also catch the attention of the 300,000 spectators around the 8.3 miles circuit. France's matra-Simcas will be out to take the honors in the 3-liter class from Italy's Alfa-Romeos.

The pre-race trials brought the fastest ever speeds here, with the cars topping 140 miles per hour as the Ferraris and Porsches battled for pole position.

About 55 cars are expected to start. Almost half of them will be cars that have emerged from his design board. As well as the racing 917 and 908 models, many of the 911 road-type Porsches are seeking class wins in the race.

Ford, dominate in recent years, is absent. But an innovation this year is the first appearance at Le Mans of a car powered by a Wankel rotary engine, a British Chevron with an engine built by Mazda of Japan under license.

Two American Chevrolet-Corvettes are also out for honors in the grand-touring class.

Although Porsche has formally won the world title, it will need a victory here to prove they are in fact the world's ports car champions.

Manager Ted Williams of the Washington Senators was born in San Diego in 1918.

Iverson Snares Norway Honors

Bob Iverson of Hyde and Ron Paquette of Kingsford captured the feature races Friday night in Norway, as Bill Goeden, the No. one modified driver in the Milwaukee area suffered his first defeat of the season on the Norway race track and Joe Haferkorn of Norway lost the sportsmens feature when he rolled his car over and substained minor injuries.

Iverson raced to an early lead and held off the challenge of Goeden in the modified feature with Wally Jors of Fond du Lac, Wis. third and Ken Iverson and Jerry Richer in a close battle for fourth.

In the modified semi-feature Jim Peterson of Kingsford road to the victory in a close race.

There were only two modified heats and the winners were Bob Iverson in the first and Herb Iverson in the second with Goeden taking the time trials again.

The sportsman feature was marked by quite a few accidents. Haferkorn lost control of his car on the No. 3 corner on the 12th lap and rolled over, Paquette, who was a close second, raced to the feature victory. Haferkorn has been reported to have broken one of his fingers and will probably be out of action tonight at the Escanaba Speedway.

Fregosi Turns 'Actor'; Angels Halt Tigers 5-2

DETROIT (AP) — Maybe because he lives in Southern California Jim Fregosi thinks he's really "Joe Hollywood."

He wasn't wearing dark sunglasses Friday night and smoking a cigarette in a six-inch holder, but he fit the celebrity role just the same.

"I'm waiting for my Hollywood contract to come along, hoked the California Angels after shortstop after stroking a pair of home runs in a 5-2 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

Likes T.V. Cameras

The game was televised in Anaheim and Fregosi's homers were his fifth and sixth in front of the TV cameras out of nine homers this year.

"The word is out," smiled the hamdsome veteran of nine seasons with the Angels. "Don't face the Angels when we're on TV."

With the win California remains in second place in the American League West, 2½ games behind Minnesota. Detroit failed to take advantage of Baltimore's 4-2 loss to Oakland and is still in third place in the East nine games behind the Orioles.

Detroit and California were to tangle again tonight with Les Cain, 5-2, searching for his fifth straight victory for the Tigers. Tom Murphy, 6-5, was the probable starting pitcher for the Angels.

Hiller's Start

Without the gopher balls John Hiller, 3-3, making his first start of the year, may have been able to go all the way for Detroit. He gave up single runs in the first, fourth, fifth and sixth innings, then the Angels tagged reliever Dennis Saunders for a run in the seventh.

Fregois belted a homer in the first, then again in the fifth while Billy Cowan led off the fourth with a round tripper for California.

"I only hit about 12 home runs a year," Fregosi said with a grin. "If I hit 11 in the first half I'll only hit one the second."

Andy Messersmith scattered seven hits in picking up his sixth win in 11 decisions.

Angel manager Lefy Phillips praised and panned his pitcher in the same sentence: "He pitched a good steady game but I've yet to see him at his best."

Freehan Homers

The Tigers scored a run in the first on consecutive singles by Mickey Stanley, Jim Northrup and Willie Horton, but they only managed four scattered hits the rest of the way. One was Bill Freehan's 11th homer which came to lead off the seventh.

California picked up its fourth run in the sixth on a double by Cowan and a bad hop single by Tommie Reynolds that appeared to hit a stone and bounce over second baseman Dick McAuliffe's head.

A pair of singles and two fielders' choices pushed across the final Angel run in the seventh.

Tigers Sign Bonus Baby

DETROIT (AP)— The Detroit Tigers have signed their No. 1 choice in last week's free agent draft, giving 18-year-old catcher Terry Mappin the largest bonus contract the club has awarded since the draft was installed in 1065.

Mapping, who was just graduated from high school in Louisville, Ky., was to work out at Tiger Stadium today and Sunday before reporting to Lakeland of the Florida State League Monday.

Ed Katalinas, Tigers' director f player procurement, kept with team policy by not disclosing the amount of the bonus.

He described Mappin as, "one of the most sought after young catchers in the country. Our scouting reports show that he has one of the best schoolboy bats with good power and we are confident he will develop rapidly."

He said Detroit scouts have been looking for some time for a lefthand catcher who hits with power. Mappin batted from .380 to .400 during his high school career, hitting .400 this year with 11 home runs in 22 games.

In the six years since the first free agent draft the Tigers have signed five of their top picks.

"In that period we have paid out a lot of bonus money," Katalinas said, "but this tops all the others."

It's Fun To Play Baseball If You're A Baltimore Oriole

By The Associated Press

Orioles Are Hiding Psychological Scars. That's what the headline said. If the Baltimore Orioles, who got their comeuppance from those ragamuffins known as the New York Mets, are hiding any scars from last October's World Series defeat they are hiding them well.

"That was last year," said Frank Robinson. "It's over and done with."

Robinson is the man who keeps the Baltimore Orioles loose for Earl Weaver, the dandy little manager who committed the unforgiveable by getting himself bounced from the fourth World Series game by a National League umpire for constantly bickering on balls and strikes.

Almost as soon as spring training opened the Orioles showed they didn't give a hoot. Before Dave McNally signed his 1970 contract there was this baseball, with its yarn hanging out. The yarn and beat up ball was tacked to McNally's locker, the ball dangling, and beside it was a sign which said:

"Compliments of Al Weis."

Weis is the darling little Met sug shortstop-second baseman who played two years for the Mets before he hit a home run in Shea Stadium. The windblown drive came against McNally, a 20-game winner, and tied the score of the final game at 3-all, setting the stage for Ron Swoboda's series winning double in the eighth.

McNally allowed American Leaguers 21 homers last year but the one Weis hit hurt the most. His Oriole teammates are not going to let him forget it. It cost each of them about $4,000.

"It was Weiss who beat me with a single in the second game, 2-1, in the ninth," says McNally. "How can I forget that rascal."

"There is no danger of complacency on this club," said Frank Robinson, the "Here Come De Judge" of Baltimore's kangaroo court.

One day Weaver said to Brooks Robinson, his All-Star third baseman and Baltimore's All-Time third baseman:

"It's nice to know you feel fine today. I guess you won't mind playing nine innings and then getting a haircut."

F. Robby could have fined B. Robby at least $1 for being "called down" by the manager but F. Robby was laughing so hard, even with a scratchy throat, that he forgot he was the judge.

These are the old Orioles, ready to tear the American League apart once again.

Hermansville LL Nipped By Norway

The Hermansville Little Leaguers lost a close one at Norway Wednesday evening when the Norway VFW outlasted them 3-2.

The big factor in the game was errors, which proved costly again for Hermansville. Manager Reno Fochesato used two hurlers Ken Raiche and Tim Fabry with Fabry getting charged with the loss. Norway scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to win the game, when Fabry walked 5 men, forcing in the winning run.

Steve Maule and Fabry had the only Hermansville hits, with Bob Devine the only Norway hit.

Devine got credit for Norway's win, relieving Mike Kimichick the starting Norway hurler.

Manager Fochesato's next game will be at Loretto Monday evening.

Eastern Gains NAIA Finals

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Northeast Louisiana and Eastern Michigan will clash tonight in the final game of the NAIA college baseball World Series.

Northeast Louisiana came from behind Friday night to stop Eastern Michigan, 7-6, to force the rubber game of the double elimination tournament. Northeast Louisiana lost to Eastern Michigan in a quarter-final game.

Eastern Michigan was the only unbeaten team in the tourney when the game started. Eastern jumped into a quick lead with three runs in the first inning and two more in the second.

Northeast Louisiana, who committed eight errors during the contest, used home runs by second baseman Rob Smith and third baseman Jeff Peck in the battle towards the victory.

John Holleman tripled to left center drive in a third rally in the victory drive.

Van Pardue gave up nine hits as he collected his second tournament victory. Tommy Olms was credited with the loss.

Jay Kuhnie, with two tournament victories under his belt, is scheduled to start tonight for Eastern Michigan with Tom Brown or Ken Roussel on the mound for Northeast Louisiana.

Snowmobilers May Face Stiffer Laws

LANSING (AP)—When Michigan snowmobilers mount up to roar off through next November's snowfall, they may face new, stiffer laws treating their vehicles more and more like automobiles.

The same prospect would be in store the following spring for owners of increasingly popular, balloon-tired "all - terrain vehicles" that navigate swamps, marshes and other backcountry areas closed to more conventional vehicles.

The new restrictions are detailed in a bill passed 81-14 Friday by the House and sent to the Senate. The bill broadens Michigan's two-year-old snowmobile regulation act to include the ATV's.

If passed by the Senate, the proposed law would have these ramifications starting Nov. 1:

—Travel on streets and highways would be prohibited except on adjacent shoulders and rights-of-way or under emergency conditions specified by local police agencies.

—Owners of ATVs, as well as an estimated 130,000 snowmobiles, would have to buy state-issued license plates if driving off their own property.

—Youngsters under the age of 14 would be forbidden to operate the vehicles without an adult's immediate supervision or when on the property of a parent or guardian.

—Hunting or tracking wildfowl or animals would be forbidden.

The bill, sponsored by Rep. Loren Anderson, R - Pontiac, contains other regulations aimed at curbing nuisances and citizen complaints arising from the booming new northland industry.

Half of the revenues generated from licensing provisions of the bill would go to the State Natural Resources Department for development of new backland trails.

The bill also would require manufacturers to stamp identification numbers on all vehicles sold after Dec. 1. The number would replace state registration numbers now required.

Local communities and townships could adopt other regulations but could not charge a fee for a license or require possession of a motor vehicle driving license.

Students Will Find Vacation Jobs Lacking

DETROIT (AP) — It will be hard finding a job in Michigan this summer.

The outlook for job-seeking students, or anyone out of work, "is not encouraging," says William R. Ford, director of the Michigan Employment Security Commission.

He said the main reason is that May's unemployment rate was the highest for that month since 1962 and virtually unchanged from April. Ford said 1,000 more people were unemployed in May than April.

"The outlook for the summer is not encouraging," Ford said, "since many of those laid off have the least skills and the lowest seniority. We expect job opportunities to remain scarce until fall...when the auto companies begin full production on new models and the national economy begins its expected pickup."

He said that a May estimate represents an increase of 55,000 unemployed over May last year. The May advance figure for the entire state's unemployment was 222,000, oe 6.2 per cent of the labor force.

Michigan's percentage for May was the highest for that month since 1962, when 6.8 per cent of the labor force was jobless, and was consideraby above the national average of 5 per cent for the same month.

Ford said May unemployment in the Detroit area during May was 101,000, or 5.8 per cent of the labor force. This was an increase of 5,000 unemployed over April's 96,000 or 5.6 per cent.

Reformed Church Rejects Merger Plan At Session

HOLLAND, Mich. (AP)—Two attempts to secure greater involvement by the Reformed Church in America in the ecumenical movement were rejected by the denomination's synod Friday.

The 280 delegates turned down a request seeking to have the Reformed Church take steps toward possible union with the United Presbyterian Church in the United States.

Such a merger was approved by the southern Presbyterian group last year but the Reformed Church vetoed any such union. The proposal touched off a heated battle last year within the Reformed denomination and even an unsuccessful motion to dissolve the church.

The second proposal vetoed Friday called upon the reformed Church to become a full participant in the Council on Church Union.

While rejecting that suggestion, the synod delegates did vote to send a copy of the council's plan of union to each Reformed Church.

Attorney Trying For Political Fund Cost Exemption

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Attorney William H. Maness is trying to convince the government that the $7,171 he spent in two unsuccessful political campaigns was simply a lawyer's way of advertising and the costs should be deductible.

The Internal Revenue Service contends Maness owes $2,246 tax on the money he spent in 1966 and 1967 campaigns for the state Senate.

Maness declared, "Much is said in every law school about the duty of lawyers to seek public office, not only for the fulfillment of the high calling of a lawyer but also as a practical means of advertising."

The former circuit judge said his income jumped from $48,536 in 1966 to $63,820 in 1968, and that this was concrete evidence his advertising paid off.

Off-Shore Drilling Moratorium Asked

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan House has passed bills aimed at declaring a moratorium on off-shore drilling in the Great Lakes and in stiffening penalties for drunk driving.

Under a bill sponsored by Rep. Raymond Kehres, D-Monroe, the State Department of Natural Resources would be forbidden to issue permits to conduct exploratory drilling for oil or gas in the Great Lakes until July 1, 1972.

The halt would allow time for studies at various levels of government into possible drilling controls.

Whether the moratorium will go into effect remained uncertain, however. Kehres admitted pressure of a pending summer recess may kill the bill's chances for senate consideration.

Stiffer penalties for drunk driving — fines of up to $300 instead of $100—were endorsed in another house bill passed on to the Senate Thursday.

In preliminary action, however, the House voted not to toughen standards of intoxication that may be established by blood or breathalyzer tests.

Amendments proposed by Reps. Donald Holbrook, R-Clare, and J. Robert Traxler, D-Bay City, would have lowered those limits.

Traxler, chairman of the Hou Judiciary Committee, said he had changed his mind and did not support them because he believed such standards of little value in curbing traffic accicents.

Chronic alcoholics, not "social drinkers," cause the "majority" of accidents involving drunk driving, Traxler said.

Some legislators also scoffed at blood tests, saying they are often conducted improperly and are based on value judgments by police officers bent on making an arrest rather than examining evidence objectively.

There was disagreement about the intoxicating potency of one drink. Rep. Thomas Guastello, D-Sterling Heights, said one "large martini" poured into a 140-pound man would register 7-100ths per cent just under the legally drunk mark on a breathalyzer.

Rep. James F. Smith, R-Davison, said eight ounces of 80 proof whiskey drunk by a 150-pound man may will produce an alcohol level of .15 per cent in the blood stream.

Rep. George H. Edwards, D-Detroit, said, "You can get the same results with onions as alcohol."

Use Of Mideast Word Clarified

By The Associated Press

The words "Palestine" and "Palestinian" are often in the Middle East news these days. Here, briefly, is their meaning:

Palestine, the area that was long under Turkish rule and then under British mandate before Israel was created in 1948, no longer exists as an entity. In general, it means the Holy Land. The word comes from the Greek for Philistia, home of the ancient Philistines. The area became split between Israel and Jordan in the 1948-67 period; in 1967 Israel occupied land claimed by Jordan including the Old City of Jerusalem which the Jordanians had held.

Palistinians in general are the Arabs who lived in Palestine under the British mandate, or those who are descended from these people. About 800,000 of these left or were forced out of the Israeli-commanded area at the time Israel was formed, and many of them and their descendants occupy refugee camps. It is the avowed aim of guerrilla groups in Arab countries to restore these people to their old homes. The guerrillas are called fedayeen, Arabic for self-sacrificer.

Briefly Told

A black bear cub was struck and killed by a semi-tractor trailer on U.S. 2 Thursday morning, Michigan State Police report. Robert E. Korth, VanDyne, Wis., told officers the cub ran in front of his vehicle and he was unable to avoid hitting the animal. The mishap occurred about 11:15 a.m. near the Cooks Corners.

Troopers are investigating the reported breaking and entering of a cottage at Harrison Beach owned by Mrs. Russell Watson, 315 Range St. Entry was gained by cutting the screen on the front door and removing a lock and hasp. The break-in occurred sometime between June 8-11. Nothing was reported missing.

Gary Thompson, Manistique, left June 10 for induction into the armed forces, according to Selective Service Clerk, Mrs. Ann Jorgenson. Thompson was presented a gift from the VFW Post. Schoolcraft County has no induction or pre-induction physicals call for July.

Pat Osterhout, 605 West Elk, an employe at the Manistique Medical Care Facilities, completed a week long course Friday at the Michigan United Labor Community Services School at South Haven. Her course included Today's Economy, Welfare Reform, W. I. N. Programs, National Health Insurance, Drug Abuse, Community Services and Air and Water Pollution.

Flag Demands Running Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — On the eve of Flag Day, Sunday, banner makers and decal distributors say business is at the top of the pole.

"Demand is up sharply, I'd say over 100 per cent above last year," said a spokesman for Annin & Co. in New York, the largest producer of cloth flags in the country. "It's more than the industry can handle."

"We've doubled our sales in the last 18 months," said H.J. Sanders, general manager of Dettra Flag Co., Inc., near San Francisco.

In Virginia, an official of Mount Vernon Flagmakers said demand is greater than at any time in memory, and New England flag factories report they are running several weeks behind in filling orders.

Prest-On Products Co. of New York says its sales of flag decals are up 10 times from last year with about 750,000 of the index card- size decals sold so far this year.

"We're selling them to political groups and to demonstrators, like the construction workers, and then there are bulk sales--we don't know where they go," a Prest-On spokesman said.

"It's a patriotic effort; we're just hoping we can break even," said a spokesman for Pepsi-Cola, which has offered a 3x5 foot cotton flag for $2.79 plus handling charges to customers in the metropolitan New York area for about a month.

The spokesman said Pepsi has received 5,000 orders so far.

More than a year ago, Reader's Digest inserted a flag decal in copies of the magazine. Since then, a spokesman said, the magazine has sold or given away nearly 54 million decals.

Many observers see the increased display of the flag as a reaction by middle-class Americans to demonstrations in which U.S. flags were desecrated or Viet Cong flags displayed.

Flags also have been used by antiwar groups.

Save our Flag Co., for instance, offered a decal that showed an American flag on the body of a dove of peace. The company urged people not to let "super patriots" take over the flag.

Speaker's Chair Vacant In Tribute To Walter Reuther

NEW YORK (AP)—The speakers chair stood vacant today at commencement exercises of Polytechnic Institute of Brooklyn, in tribute of UAW President Walter P. Reuther, who was to have addressed the graduates.

A posthumous honorary doctor of laws degree was conferred upon Reuther during the ceremonies.

Reuther, his wife and four other persons died in a plane crash May 3.

Divorce Measure Compromise KO'd

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican has denied a report that it was attempting to make a deal with the Italian government to kill the divorce bill.

The Roman Catholic Church is alleged to have offered to "normalize" the status of millions of separate spouses and to make annulments easier in return for a renunciation of legalized divorce by Italy.

The alleged deal was reported in today's L'Espresso, the leftist weekly, which carried an interview with the chief exponent of the Italian divorce movement, Socialist deputy Loris Fortuna.

Asked about the L'Espresso article, the Vatican spokesman Msgr. Fausto Vallainc said: "It is not true."

OPEN SUNDAYS

'Flea Market' Space Offered

Wednesday, June 17, is Flea Market Day in Escanaba from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m., and Escanaba merchants are donating space in front of their places of business to individuals and groups with any saleable merchandise.

If there are individuals or groups who have not already reserved space, it is still available, and can be had by calling the Escanaba Chamber of Commerce, 786-2192.

The retail division of the Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the first Flea Market to be held in Escanaba as a cooperative event between local merchants and residents of the area. Residents and groups will have things to sell on tables, racks and booths arranged as a street market on Ludington street. The merchants will promote specials in their stores for this one-day June event.

At present there are reservations for book sales, bake sales, food stands, shoe shine stands, hand made rugs, crafts of different kinds, white elephant sales, rummage sales, cook book sales, afghan sales, plus many other sale events.

If the June Flea Market is successful, it will become an annual event in Escanaba, as it is in so many areas of the country.

Detroiter Given Death Sentence

BOSTON (AP)—John S. Stewart, 47, of Detroit was convicted of first degree murder recently in the robbery shooting of a Boston policeman March 17, 1969. Stewart was immediately sentenced to death by electrocution.

A jury in Suffolk Superior Court deliberated three hours before bringing in its verdict without a recommendation of clemency.

In sentencing Stewart, a drifter whose last known address was in Boston, Judge Walter H. McLaughlin noted he had a record of violence since he became an adult.

Fires Of Inflation Failing To Get People 'Steamed Up'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Have you been complaining less about price increases recently? There's a growing feeling among some merchants that while you may not be enjoying price rises, you're becoming less perturbed.

The suspicion cannot be easily documented, and indeed it seems to be contradictory. If people were perturbed last year by 5 and 6 per cent increases, why shouldn't they be this year, when the rates are the same?

Earlier in the battle, housewives picketed stores, boycotted products forced some stores to drop gimmicks and trading stamps, wrote irate letters to anyone who would listen. Now while the fires of inflation continue to be stoked, far less steam is hissing from the boilers.

Merchants Helping

Part of the explanation might lie in a feeling that retailers have become more responsive to consumer demands and are making serious efforts to keep down living costs. But indifference quite likely plays a large role. People may be tiring of the battle.

Another clue is provided by the most recent University of Michigan report on consumer attitudes and inclinations to buy. It found that consumer buying sentiment continued to decline, but not only because prices were rising.

The deterioration in buying sentiment, said George Katona and Jay Schmiedeskamp of the university's Survey Research Center, "was caused mainly by increased awareness of the economic slowdown and growing unemployment."

Only Hurts A Little

Higher prices played a less significant role. "In view of rising incomes," the researchers said, "most peole say that inflation hurts them only a little, and less than 25 per cent that it hurts them much or very much."

Compare that attitude with the fired-up feelings of the housewives' revolt against retailers a few years ago, when increases weren't as great as they are now.

Adapted To Inflation

The adaptation to inflation, slight as it may be, is bad news from administration officials who hope to bring a return to a more balanced economy. It also suggests an explanation for persistence of higher prices: the resistance just isn't as great as might have been expected.

An adjustment to higher prices is bad news on another front also. It presupposes a continuation of buying power, which means the buyer also expects that his pay check will continue to rise at the same rate as prices.

Perhaps ordinary Americans detect something that administration economists have been reluctant to concede—that inflation may be with this nation a lot longer and a lot more intensively than once believed.

Fight Continues

Eighteen months ago administration officials spoke confidently about a war on inflation to the unconditional end, and there was little doubt in their minds that they would win.

Even when the evidence began to mount against them they stuck to their guns, but private economists, some of whom make a living from second guessing the administration, began to revise their figures upward.

Now it isn't uncommon to find experienced forecasters submitting to the thesis that inflation of 3 or even 4 per cent a year might become chronic over the next decade or more.

Argument Noted

Their argument goes something like this: The United States is committed to a full employment policy; efforts to create high employment always seem to attract inflation.

They argue further, that any attempt to cool the economy—such as is occurring now, is likely to be thwarted before it produces the desired results because of the need to provide jobs for underprivileged members of society.

While this could very well be so, the more immediately troubling development is the apparent acceptance of inflation by a great number of people who were fighting mad just a year or so ago.

Scholle said in an interview, "It should be very interesting to be a candidate for a change."

Students Disrupt Wayne U. Meeting

DETROIT (AP)—Twenty students demanding an end to "university war research" briefly disrupted the monthly meeting of the Wayne State University Board of Governors Thursday.

The demonstrators left the meeting in Alumni House peacefully after Wayne State President William Keast gave them two minutes to either find seats and become orderly, leave the meeting or risk arrest for trespassing.

The May meeting of the Board of Governors was also disrupted by students.
